BIGGEST STEEL SHUTDOWN IN HISTORY UNDER WAY

KAISER ACCEPTS STEEL PAY PACT

Signs Truman's Compromise Plan Of 18½ Cents Per Hour Raise

BIG WALKOUT SCHEDULED TO GET STARTED MONDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Henry J. Kaiser signed up today under President Truman's compromise wage plan to keep his California steel plant in operation while the bulk of the industry got set for an economy-shaking shutdown Monday.

The C. I. O.-Steelworkers, meanwhile, reported that they were dickering for additional breaks in the industry front against their pared-down demand for a boost of at least 18 1/2 cents an hour.

Elsewhere 750,000 C. I. O.-Steelworkers were ready to walk out of 1,300 steel plants as of 12:01 a. m. Monday in a crucial reconversion struggle. Some jumped the gun.

Mr. Truman had suggested the 18½ cent increase as a compromise between the union's 19½-cent demand and the U. S. Steel Corporation's counter of 15 cents. The corporation, accepted here as representing the entire industry concentrated in the east and midwest, turned it down as too high.

But Kaiser, who has battled the eastern steel kings throughout the

ASKS ADVERTISING FOR ENLISTMENTS

Johnson Urges 'Biggest Campaign This Country Ever Saw'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, today advocated "the biggest advertising campaign this country ever saw" to draw volunteers for the army.

Chairman of a special military affairs subcommittee which has been studying demobilization problems, he told a reporter:

"The adoption of a voluntary system is the answer to the whole thing We must get vigorously behind a program to get whatever men we need in the army."

While declaring the army should reassess its requirements, Johnson said he did not consider the War Department's estimate of July 1 needs excessive. That calls for 1,500,000 officers and men.

"We have 400,000 volunteers in the army right now," he said. "Then there are 150,000 officers, all volunteers, which leaves 950,000 volunteers to be recruited by July 1. I believe the whole need can be filled by volunteers."

The senator said that the developments of the past few weeks "should convince us that an impressed army in times of peace is disastrous."

He added that the navy appears to be filling all its needs with volunteers and is experiencing little trouble with demobilization.

Johnson said he hopes to have the report of the committee's investigation completed in the next few days.

Meanwhile with the future of the draft law clouded, the army sought to make re-enlistments more attractive so as to assure itself the minimum force it needs for its occupation and war liquidation roles.

The latest re-enlistment inducement, it was disclosed, will give soldiers returning to civil life, during

LOUISIANA SOLON SUMMONS POLICE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Rep. Overton Brooks, of Shreveport, yesterday called capitol police to disperse a group of supporters of FEPC legislation who swarmed over the House and Senate office building.

The group, chiefly Negroes from New York City, came to Overton's office and demanded of his receptionist, Miss Mattie Edwards, that they be allowed to see the Louisiana Congressman.

She asked the group if any of them were from Louisiana, and upon being told they were all from New York suggested that they call upon one of the New York Congressmen.

This did not suit them and they demanded to see Brooks. She then conferred with the Louisiana Congressman, who said to tell them he was strongly opposed to a permanent FEPC and that it would be a waste of both their time and his for him to see them.

The New Yorkers then assumed a belligerent attitude, claiming they had a right to see any member of the federal legislature. They loitered in the hall outside his office arguing and talking loudly. Brooks then called capitol police to disperse them.

"I don't propose to permit any delegation of northern Communists fighting for the FEPC to come into my office," the Congressman said.

Iran Appeals Directly To UNO To Stop Russia

Charges Soviet Union With Interference In Internal Affairs

By John A. Parris

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Iran appealed directly tonight to the UNO Security Council to investigate "interference of the Soviet Union, through the medium of their officials and armed forces, in the internal affairs of Iran," and announced that direct negotiations with Russia had failed.

The announcement presented the first thorny test to the 11-member council on which five maior nations, including Russia, have veto power. The council, to which armed forces eventually will be assigned to maintain peace, was organized formally only last Thursday.

The Iranian delegation presented a letter to Acting Secretary General Gladwyn Jebb stating that a "situation has arisen which may lead to international friction," and adding that repeated attempts of the Iranian gov-

LOOK FOR OKAY OF STRIKE BILL

Control Measure Likely To Pass Committee By Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A majority of the House labor committee predicted today the group will approve a new strike control bill next week, probably Tuesday.

They agreed, in individual questioning by a reporter, that it will embody of the principle of fact-finding, but President Truman's recommendations on that point probably will be modified. Varying opinions were expressed as to the degree of compromise.

Some of the members interviewed asked that their names not be used, but 10 of the 18 who are due to be present Tuesday for the vote agreed with the viewpoint expressed by Acting Chairman Randolph, Democrat, West Virginia. He said:

"I expect the committee to approve some type of legislation embodying the principle of fact-finding. The vote will be close, but most of the members believe we should get a measure to the floor so Congress can make a decision."

Representative Landis, Republican, Indiana, asserted he has enough votes assured now to guarantee adoption of his modification plan, which was defeated by a seven to seven tie vote in the committee Thursday. He added that even if his proposal is not accepted he and his supporters will go along with "any reasonable compromise" in order to get floor action.

The legislation requested by Mr Truman would establish fact-finding boards to make recommendations for solution of major labor disputes. It would give them power to subpoena records and would ban strikes during a 30-day period while they deliberated.

Under the Landis amendment, the power of subpoena would be denied the board and the section providing for 30-day "cooling off" would be eliminated.

Representative Hoffman, Republican, Michigan, asserted that with these controversial sections stricken from the bill it "will be acceptable to supporters of both management and labor."

Representative Barden, Democrat, North Carolina, declared that the Landis plan "takes all the teeth out of the bill" but said he would support any type of strike control measure "so we can get something to the floor and get a vote."

ORLEANS MAYOR FACES THREAT

Youngster, Just Back From War, Is Challenging Hold

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A blue-blooded political youngster just back from the wars is challenging the firm hold the old Democratic organization has had for 20 years on the New Orleans city hall.

The Hall's tenancy for the next four years will be decided Tuesday when the Democratic primary nominates a candidate for mayor. In one-party Louisiana, nomination means election.

The mayor contest for the mayorship of the South's biggest city has developed between De Lesseps Story Morrison, released from the army a few weeks ago as a colonel, and Mayor Robert S. Maestri, who is rounding out ten years in office.

Morrison is 33, Maestri 56.

Morrison's mother as a girl was a reigning New Orleans debutante. But when his father died, the son had to work his way through the state university. Maestri does not move in the clannish society of New Orleans' oldest families, but he was a wealthy man before he entered politics.

Morrison is backed by many of the elements that led the fight against the late Huey P. Long and his political heirs. Maestri was a powerful supporter of the late senator, and is among the last of the long leaders to hold important public office.

Maestri has the endorsement of the Old Regular organization, whose candidates have stood off all oponents since 1924. Morison has the blessing of all three New Orleans newspapers.

The Independent Citizens' Committee which sponsors the Morrison candidacy started the fight against Maestri with former Congressman J. O. Fernandez, who resigned as federal collector of Internal Revenue to make the race. Morrison got his chance when Fernandez suddenly withdrew late in November and threw his support to Maestri.

The young colonel had just returned from Europe. He accepted the bid of the Citizens' group and plunged into a whirlwind round of campaign speeches, assailing Maestri's 10-year administration as inefficient, dictatorial, wasteful and controlled by a political ring.

In the Regular camp, there were maneuverings which newspapers saw as signs of a split in the organization. Both Maestri and another organization leader, James E. Comiskey, qualified as candidates. Then the organization caucus endorsed Maestri. Comiskey withdrew. Spokesmen said harmony prevailed and they were solidly behind Maestri.

Always a man of few words, the mayor has made few speeches. In them he said his personal negotiations saved the city from bankruptcy in 1936, that the city's bonded indebtedness had been reduced $22,000,000 during his administration and that current operations were on a cash basis.

A New Orleans native, Maestri started out in his father's furniture

GREENWOOD BUSY LAYING SANDBAGS

GREENWOOD, Miss., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Greenwood in the fork of three rivers, held its own tonight by sandbagging levees against Mississippi Delta floods.

Latest reports indicated that the Yazoo river, into which both the Tallahatchie and Yalobusha empty northeast of the city, was nearing its crest at 2 1/2 feet above flood stage.

The Yazoo, nearing its predicted crest of 39 feet, was gauged at 38.57 feet today. Lt. Col. R. W. Sauer, Vicksburg district engineer, said the rate of rise was diminishing at Greenwood and the river was falling above the city.

Downstream in Humphrey's county the tension was increasing and levee strain was observed as far as Belzeni. A close watch was being maintained for weak spots in the systems.

The engineers said 20,000 sacks had been placed on the Yazoo levee at Greenwood during the past 24 hours to hold back encroaching waters. The sacking was done by 350 prisoners of war.

Probably 50 persons had to be removed from Grenada boulevard, which was being overrun by overflow from Big Sandy creek, east of the city. The boulevard is situated outside of ring levees which protect Greenville proper from the flood.

This overflow is finding its way into the Yazoo several miles south of Greenwood.

The weather was clear all day in Greenwood but further up in the Delta rain was predicted for tonight. Observers said little uneasiness was felt over the prediction unless heavy rains occur.

Red Cross reports said that evacuations from lowlands in the Yalobusha and Coldwater river basins had been completed today. Thousands of acres of land were being inundated by rising waters in Quitman county.

3 DIE IN BLOODY JERUSALEM RIOTS

JERUSALEM, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Rioting, explosions and gunfire spread throughout Jerusalem tonight in a bloody outbreak by terrorists in which at least three persons were killed and three wounded, with casualties among both police and attackers.

The Palestine radio station went off the air after attacks on its buildings and bombing of an electric power station nearby in St. Paul's road.

The military radio station at Jopa said police opened fire and attackers fired back after the bombing.

Part of the Jerusalem prison hall was wrecked in a subsequent explosion, in which the military radio said one British police officer was killed and another wounded.

A British army officer was killed later, the broadcast added, and other casualties included a dead Jew brought to Haddassah Hospital on Mount Scopus.

THREE BURNED IN BODY SHOP FIRE

Four Business Establishments Scenes Of Fires Saturday

Three persons were burned, one severely, in a fire that burned the paint and body shop of McCain-Richards, Inc., local automobile dealers, 1200 block Louisville avenue, yesterday morning. Three other business establishments were also scenes of fires yesterday, the Rainbow Inn, south of here on Columbia road; Louis Elias' dry goods establishment, 512 DeSiard street, and Monroe Floor Covering, Inc., 2415 South Grand street.

B. A. Hay, McCain-Richards employe whose clothing was said to have ignited when fire broke out in the paint shop about 9 a. m. yesterday, was being treated at St. Francis Sanitarium last night for burns about the hands, face, and back. Also burned were Pete Gonzales and Robert Turnbolt, also McCain-Richards employes, who were treated in a local physician's office for hand burns.

The building on the McCain-Richards property that was burned was separate from the main office and display building which was not injured, firemen said. The blaze was believed to have originated in a wash room adjoining the paint and body shop. It was reported that a gas burner under a hot water tank was believed to have been open although the fire was not lit, and that the striking of a match in the room set off the accumulated gas.

Hay was clothed in coveralls that were believed to have absorbed gasoline fumes, it was said. He was in the wash room when the fire broke out, it was reported, and his clothing quickly ignited.

Three companies of the Monroe fire department were despatched to the scene, and later West Monroe and Selman Field fire apparatus was prepared to meet any emergency that might arise because all Monroe apparatus was busy, three companies at the time being at Rainbow Inn.

The Rainbow Inn fire occurred at 8 a. m. and presented quite a problem to local fire fighters. The Inn, a night club owned by W. H. Smith and located just outside the Monroe city limits below Louisiana Training Institute, is in an area without facilities of fire plugs, and firemen were forced to combat the blaze with booster pumps drawing on reserves of water carried in tanks on their trucks.

The Rainbow fire for a time appeared as though it would destroy the building, but Monroe fire fighters managed to control the blaze quickly. A defective hot water tank was believed to have caused the fire.

Shorts in electrical wiring were reported responsible for fires at Louis

UNABLE TO RECOVER BODIES OF TWO MEN

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Divers today reported that the position of the sunken Carrie B. Schwing made it impossible to recover immediately the bodies of two men believed drowned when it sank here early Thursday morning.

The men, Alfred Greaud and Alex Landry, were believed to have been asleep below decks when the towboat sank at its moorings in about 40 feet of water alongside standard Oil Company's refinery dock on the Mississippi here. Two other crewmen escaped.

A Call From Her Master

"Honey Girl," 21-year-old Boston terrier, hears the voice of her master, Navy Signalman Harry E. Bennett, from Bremerton, Wash., as the sailor's mother, Mrs. Joseph Rockwood, holds the phone in her home at Detroit. Seriously ill, the dog has been given two weeks to live. But she was reported to have shown "remarkable improvement" after hearing Bennett's voice. (A. P. Wirephoto.)

Two Big Glass Firm Strikes Are Settled

TRIALS ORDERED FOR HIGH JAPS

Tojo And Others To Be Tried For 'Crimes Against Humanity'

TOKYO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The long-awaited trials of ex-premier Hideki Tojo and other Japanese war leaders for "crimes against peace and crimes against humanity" were ordered by General MacArthur today in chartering an International Tribunal tentatively scheduled to begin operations March 1.

MacArthur, ordering establishment of the Tribunal and announcing its rules of procedure, made clear that the court of five to nine members "will not be bound by technical rules of evidence" and will not recognize official position or obedience to orders as justification for a defendant's acts.

Members of the court will be appointed by MacArthur from nominations submitted by nations signatory to the Japanese surrender. Russia has not yet indicated whether she will participate, but some sources here expressed the belief that she would.

The charter under which the tribunal will operate lists three categories of crimes for which the defendants will be tried:

1. Crimes against peace—"The planing, preparation, invitation or waging of declared or undeclared war of aggression, or war in violation of international law. . . ."

2. Conventional war crimes—"Violations of the laws and customs of war."

3. Crimes against Humanity—"Murder, extermination, enslavement, deportation and other inhuman acts committed against any civilian population before or during the war. . . ."

As preparations went ahead for the trials of Japan's top war leaders, one of the small-time war criminals already convicted appealed to MacArthur for commutation of his death sentence.

He was Lt. Kei Yuri, recently convicted at Yokohama of responsibility for the deaths of two Americans in the prison camp he commanded.

"You are my only God and Savior," Yuri fervently wrote the supreme commander from his cell in Sugamo

Government Takes Steps To End Walkout Of Electricians

COLUMBUS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A strike of approximately 15,000 C. I. O. unionists employed at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company was settled tonight with a flat 10.7 cents an hour wage increase accepted by the union.

Joseph Froesch, president of the Federation of Glass, Ceramic and Silica Glass Workers of America (C. I. O.) and L. G. Bryant, vice-president of Libbey-Owens-Ford, issued the joint statement which ended the walkout affecting the two concerns, idled since last Oct. 19.—They said plants would open Monday.

The wage agreement, retroactive to Oct. 2, 1945, includes an additional seven cents an hour for certain maintennce rates plus a re-opening clause in the wage agreement. This means the union may petition for new wage rates and that the management is required to meet and discuss the new proposals within 20 days.

The conferees, who included Clyde Mills, government conciliator, opened contract negotiations, Jan. 7. They were joined last week by Howard Colvin, assistant chief of the U. S. conciliation service.

Plants involved in the agreement are at Charleston, W. V., Shreveport, La., Mt. Vernon, O., Ford City, and Creighton, Pa., Toledo, O., Ottawa, Ill., and Crystal City, Mo.

The union had asked a flat increase of 25 cents an hour. Officials of both company and union did not say in their announcement of the agreement what percentage over present rates the increase brought current wages.

NEW AUTO WEIGHS ONLY 1,000 POUNDS

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Crosley Motors' first post-war automobile will have a streamlined aluminum body on an 80-inch wheelbase and will be powered by a new type four-cylinder, furnace-brazed, sheet steel engine developing 26 1/2 horsepower.

Announcing these details today, Powell Crosley, Jr., president also said the new car will be sold through a number of leading department stores in larger cities as well as through franchised dealers in about 150 trading centers.

Crosley said the new small, low-cost vehicle, weighing approximately 1,000 pounds, will do 60 miles an hour and yield 50 miles to the gallon of ordinary gasoline.

Within its 57-inch height and 49-inch width the new model has two seats in front, two in back and a luggage compartment 25 by 40 inches. It has a six-gallon gasoline tank.

The power plant, built from thin sheet-steel stampings instead of forgings and castings weighs but 59 pounds and is only slightly larger than a standard typewriter. Cylinder walls are of chrommolybdenum steel and are only one - sixteenth of an inch thick.

Engine parts are all stamped from thin metal sheet and tubes crimped together, then brazed into a single piece by melting pure copper into all the joints by an hour's baking in a hydrogen or gas furnace.

The engine uses but three quarts of oil and the cooling system requires only five quarts of water, but the pump forces water through the system at the rate of 12 gallons each minute.

Retail prices were not announced.

10 RUSSIANS WHO FOUGHT FOR GERMANS KILL SELVES

By Don Doane

BAD TOELZ, Germany, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Ten Russians who fought for the Germans on the Eastern front committed suicide, and 21 others slashed themselves in a flaming prisoners' barracks at Dachau today when American soldiers tried to force them to return to Russia, United States Third army headquarters announced.

The Russians at first had barricaded themselves in the barracks, set it afire, stripped off their clothes, linked arms and invited American soldiers and Polish guards to shoot them. Not a shot was fired by the Americans, who tossed tear gas into the barracks and rushed in armed only with billy clubs, headquarters said.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander-in-chief of the United States forces in Europe, said the only Russians forced to return home under the Yalta agreement on repatriation were those proved to have been Soviet army deserters, to have served in German uniforms or to have aided enemies of the Soviet Union.

None is being forcibly repatriated merely for ordinary acts of ordinary employment in German industry or agriculture, or simply for preferring not to return, McNarney emphasized.

The wounded, prevented from killing themselves by the American guards, were taken to a hospital. All had slit their throats or inflicted other wounds, apparently with razor blades they had hidden in the barracks.

Army officials said the 31 were part of a group of 721 who were members of a force of Flying Cossacks commanded by Lt. Gen. Andrei A. Vlassov, who fought for the Germans on the Eastern front. Their return to Russia was demanded by the Soviet government.

The entire group refused to board a train two days ago, but this morning all were induced by the American troops to go aboard, except the 31 holding out in the barracks. Although the Russians were not informed of their destination, they ap-

Thousands Stop Ahead Of Time

750,000 Employed By 1,292 Companies In 30 States Expected To Be Out On Strike By Early Monday

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The greatest shutdown in the history of steel industry was under way tonight with thousands of workers already off the job, some quitting work ahead of the time set for a strike—12:01 a. m., Monday—and others being sent home by companies curtailing operations in preparation for the stoppage.

Approximately 29,000 went on strike at a few scattered plants after the collapse of eleventh hour negotiations for higher wages, swelling to 55,000 the number idled by strikes in various parts of the country, some of them over local grievances.

Workers generally, however, were waiting the official strike deadline which the C. I. O.-United Steel Workers estimated will take 750,000 workers from their jobs at 1,292 companies in 30 states.

Large steel companies went ahead with the mill closing program. Spokesmen for the U. S. Steel Corporation in the Chicago and Pittsburgh areas declared the "curtailment program was going ahead as planned and in quiet fashion."

Steel producers were closing the mills gradually, banking blast furnaces and open hearths, in preparation for the suspension. The shutdown machinery was set into motion almost immediately after U. S. Steel Corporation rejected President Truman's mediation wage proposal yesterday and Philip Murray, president of the union, ordered the strike "into full force and effect" on January 21.

The union's "strike list" embraces a majority of the basic steel producing companies, as well as hundreds of fabrication plants, and also a large part of the aluminum industry.

Reports from the great steel centers of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, which produce the major part of the nation's steel, showed plans for the stoppage progressing orderly, with no expectation from any quarter that the strike could be headed off.

Already idle in Pennsylvania strikes were an estimated 21,000 men, including workers at the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation's plants, and the Allegheny-Ludlum Steel Corp., works at West Leechburg. Since the collapse of the wage negotiations, more than 7,000 also walked out at the Great Lakes Stel Co., in Detroit and 2,500 struck at the Columbia Steel Company Works in Pittsburgh, Calif.

In other states, strikes which started earlier involving local grievances for the most part, affected 12,400 in New York State; 3,700 in Massachusetts; 3,500 in Indiana; 900 in Connecticut and 3,600 in Illinois.

Pickets were out at some of the struck plants. Orderly conditions prevailed. Crowds watched the pickets, wearing armbands and carrying signs, marching in front of the mill gates of Jones and Laughlin's Pittsburgh works. Girls joined the picket line in front of the corporation's strip mill on Second avenue here.

The strike started last night at the corporation's Pittsburgh works, and spread during the day to its Aliquippa, Pa., plant.

Together the two plants employ about 18,000.

An estimated 227,000 steel and aluminum workers in the Pittsburgh area, the nation's most important steel center, were expected to leave the mills at the time set by the union.

SENATE TO WORK HARD AT NOTHING

FEPC Supporters Hope To Beat Filibuster With Long Hours

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The United States Senate faces the dreary prospect of doing nothing next week, and staying at it seven hours a day.

A southern filibuster against a bill to establish a permanent fair employment practice commission has the lawmakers marking time in a legislative dead-end street.

The Republican minority, most of whom favor the anti-discrimination bill, decided at a meeting today to insist that the Senate stay in session next week until at least 6 o'clock.

A Democratic spokesman said the majority would move to meet at 11 a. m., instead of the customary noon hour.

Senator Wayne Morse, Republican, Oregon, insists that there should be continuous sessions until the filibuster is broken. He proposes 24-hour instead of seven-hour meetings.

Senator Dennis Chavez, Democrat, New Mexico, another pro-FEPC man, said Morse may have discovered a filibuster buster.

"Of course we're older than the opposition, but I think we have more staying power," he told reporters.

The southerners claim they have more than enough votes to block a move to shut off debate, which would require a two-thirds majority.

However, they don't have to worry about that for a while. They grabbed the ball from their opponents yesterday and began the time-consuming practice of reading and correcting the journal of Thursday's session. The gag rule can't be invoked against that, the book says.

Still debating a motion to insert the text of the chaplain's opening prayer, the southerners may get a respite Monday when the president's 25,000-word budget-state of the union message is read.

The proposal to extend Senate sessions from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m., brought a quick rejoiner from Senator Russell, Democrat, Georgia, who declared southerners "will be there, and if they want 24-hour sessions that's all right with us."

Russell, co-leader with Senator Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, of the southern opposition, said if 24-hour session were voted his group "will see to it that proponents stay on the floor, too."

"We will demand a quorum call every two hours," Russell told a reporter, adding he believed 24-hour sessions likely would "bring the thing to a head quicker than anything else."

Opponents found themselves in the enviable position of being able to run their speakers in shifts, since journal amendments and debate can not be limited and no other business, under the rules, can be transacted until the journal for Thursday is approved.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, president pro tem, set the filibuster stage Thursday by moving that the Senate "adjourn" instead of "recess."

Proponents, apparently caught napping, voted with the opponents. If a recess had been approved, the FEPC bill could have been taken up first thing Friday, but under Senate rules when it adjourns, the journal must be approved for the previous day before any other business can be transacted.

Senator Overton blocked customary procedures which dispenses with reading of the journal, by objecting yesterday. It makes unanimous consent to dispense with reading and formal approval.

MANVILLE AND 8TH WIFE ARE PARTED

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—After a marriage of five weeks, Thomas F. "Tommy" Manville, Jr., 51, and his eighth wife, the former Georgina Campbell, 27, will seek a Nevada divorce, Irwin Miness, attorney for Manville, said today.

The attorney said Mrs. Manville left the couple's home in nearby New Rochelle today for an unannounced destination. He added it was not known who would seek the divorce.

BIGGEST SHORTAGE OF MEAT TO START

CHICAGO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A meat shortage exceeding anything during the war time rationing period appeared in prospect today as efforts to settle the four-day-old strike of 263,000 packing house workers shifted from Washington to Chicago.

Public hearings before a president-appointed fact-finding panel were scheduled to begin here Tuesday on demands of the CIO United Packinghouse Workers and the AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen. The panel has orders to report to Labor Secretary Schwellenbach February 16.

The CIO Union asks a 17 1/2 cents an hour wage increase and continued negotiations on an additional 7 1/2 cents. The AFL affiliate's demand is 15 cents. The highest counter proposal from any of the major packers affected, including Swift, Armour, Cudahy, Wilson and Morrell, has been 10 cents.

As retailers throughout the nation reported increasingly critical depletion of stocks and stockyard receipts fell off, an indication that the situation may grow worse came from Washington, where government sponsored conferences ended without settlement yesterday.

Don Mahon, president of the unaffiliated National Brotherhood of Packinghouse Workers, said his union, with a mebmership of 50,000, would file a 30-day strike notice if conciliation efforts fail.

The brotherhood is not on strike. If it should join the walkout, it would halt operations at many of the plants whose combined production is already inadequate.

20 COMMUNITIES TO RECEIVE AID

Projects In Louisiana Include Schools, Paving And Waterworks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The preparation of plans and specifications for public works in 20 Louisiana communities will be financed with federal advances made by Major General Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator. The projects include schools, paving, waterworks and sewer system improvements, a gas distribution system, an electrical generation and distribution system, and a municipal ice plant.

The funds will be made available through the bureau of community facilities, federal works agency, and are to be repaid, without interest, when construction is begun. The list:

Bossier parish school board (two advances) grade school, at Bossier City, estimated cost $213,000, advance $6,300; athletic field stadium at Bossier City, $70,000 and $2,340; Coushatta, street paving, $85,436 and $3,639; St. Martinville (two advances) water filtration plant improvements, $34,000 and $911; swimming pool and bath house, $48,000 and $1,301;

Bossier City (three advances) water supply line and storage tank repairs, $40,000 and $360; street pavings, $208,000 and $5,758; sanitary sewer system extensions and outfall line, $123,000 and $3,000;

SABATH PUSHES LOTTERY PLAN

Figures Uncle Sam Would Make Big Profit From Drawings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Adolph Sabath brushed off his old "nobody-can-lose" lottery plan today, added a dash of war bond and anti-inflation appeal, and decided to try to push it through Congress.

The 79-year-old dean of the House of representatives and chairman of its potent rules committee has been trying to get a national lottery law enacted for a long time.

He thinks the time is ripe right now.

"People have a lot of money, they can't spend it on many of the things they want because they aren't available, and if we can siphon some of it off into the treasury in an honest gambling proposition, nobody will suffer," he said in an interview.

And the danger of inflation might be lessened, he added, by draining away a lot of loose money.

Instead of giving away cash prizes as he had proposed before, Sabath now wants the lottrey winners to be paid off in war bonds.

He's working on a bill which would give the winner of the first prize in a monthly or bi-monthly lottery drawing $100,000 in good United States war bonds. Second prize would be $75,000, third $50,000, fourth $25,000 and then there would be a lot of smaller awards.

He figures Uncle Sam would stand to net between $1,000,000,000 and $2,000,000,000 annually from the lottery.

Sabath tentatively has set the price of a lottery ticket at one dollar, with no limit on the number of tickets a person could buy.

To induce the public to go for the gamble in a big way, he proposes that holders of even the losing tickets be allowed to redeem them at face value, without interest, after about 20 years.

"There won't be any losers," he said. "There will be only winners. The non-winners get their money back eventually."

"The American people, or at least a large number of them, like to gamble and they are going to gamble," said Sabath. "They gamble now on the numbers, on horse races which aren't always honest, on foreign lotteries and on almost anything that comes along, whether they've got a chance or not."

20 VETS TAKEN INTO V. F. W. HERE

Wood E. Lanier, commander of Rodney J. Hobbs Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, states that 20 returned overseas veterans from every war zone were admitted to the post here Thursday night. The post at this meeting also voted to join with the proposed veterans' council to be organized here.

The council will be quite similar to the one a decade ago that aided in furnishing the G. B. Cooley Sanatorium. The room that each group furnished bears over the door the name of the group that thus assisted.

Those admitted to the Rodney J. Hobbs Post Thursday night were: Henry R. Taylor, Lawrence E. Haney, Paul E. Brooks, James D. Maxwell, James A. Swanson, Solomon A. Scott, James B. Brodnax, Marcus D. Ragland, Clinto E. Swanson, Leon R. Reneau, Benjamin H. Brodnax, William B. Rainer, James H. Rainer, Wilson McGee, John E. Devereaux, Frederick H. Billhorn, Otis E. Davis, Hardy Cranford, Gordon M. LeBlanc, and John W. Shea.

John A. Poulos was named to serve on the proposed veterans' council with the post's senior vice-commander, C. D. Brooks. The next meeting will be on February 7.

PUBLIC FORUM

OUR SCHOOL SYSTEMS

Monroe, La.
Jan. 18, 1946.

To the Editor:

I have read with very, very keen interest of the some forty or fifty suggestions that have been made by Monroe business men at the Chamber of Commerce this week about what Monroe needs. I think our city needs, desperately, every one of these suggestions that have been made. Many of these things suggested will doubtless be difficult to accomplish but I believe they can, and I hope will be done.

One of the most amazing things about Monroe is its duplicating school systems. I have never been able to fathom it. Our family came to Monroe ten years ago from Texas, and started our two children to one of Monroe's grade schols. They were then about ready for high school, and their teachers immediately made them victims of a tug-of-war trying to persuade them to go to Neville instead of Ouachita Parish High School. My children and I were both confused. I asked neighbors about the two schools, and to my astonishment I was told that about 75 per cent of all Monroe high school students went to Parish, and that Neville was where the rich people sent their children, and that Neville had fraternities, sororities, etc., and was primarily a "society bunch," and if I wanted my children to learn anything, I'd better let them go to Parish where they wanted to go. After all our argument and confusion, our boys went to Parish because they wanted to play football, and they didn't want to be on Neville's team because, they said, 'Neville is so small they only play little country high schools."

In Texas my father was a school superintendent. He used to preach sermons at our dinner table about the ignorance and prejudice of farmers in our country who refused to consolidate their small schools into larger and more efficient ones. I believe my father's educational philosophy was sound. Thus, imagine my amazement when we came to Monroe and found two school systems, overlapping, competitive, vieing with each other, duplicating each other's work. From my viewpoint it is not only inefficient, it is absurd and downright silly.

Some one suggested in these Chamber of Commerce Victory clinics that the Chamber of Commerce should be more courageous in handling matters that were the community's "hot potatoes." Our school problem may be a "hot potato" but it should be cooked, cooled, peeled, buttered and eaten with relish! Why not do it? Why not make Neville our senior high school, with a junior high in West Monroe and convert crowded O. P. H. S. into a junior high. Let's give our children a maximum of educational opportunities and stop our silly arguments as to which system is the best one. Any sensible person must admit, when all facts are considered, we would have better and more economical schools if they were consolidated.

I hope the Chamber of Commerce isn't afraid of this "hot potato."

Sincerely,
A Monroe Housewife.

A SOLDIER'S PLEA

Guam, Marianas Islands,
Jan. 8, 1946

To the Editor,

I and every soldier I have talked with on Guam have been appalled at the conflicting, confused, and vague statements made by the War Department in the last few days with regard to demobilization plans. The Secretary of War visited Guam several days ago on his round-the-world tour to study the problems of occupation, surplus supplies and advanced bases. During a news interview, he expressed surprise upon being informed that discharge points ceased to accumulate on Sept. 2, 1945 (V-J Day). Furthermore, he was unaware that General Marshall, while chief of staff, made a statement to the effect that all men with two years in the service would be eligible for discharge by late winter, or more specifically, March 20, 1946. Incidentally, most of Mr. Patterson's findings from his tour of inspection will come from high-ranking officers who are anxious to maintain their rank and commands.

Then several nights ago a news broadcast from San Francisco announced General Collins' statement that demobilization would be reduced from 800,000 men being returned from overseas monthly to 300,000—and that men could be retained until replacements arrive. This broadcast lowered the already low morale of many of us to the point yet unheard of.

Since V-J Day, millions of men have lived with but one thought in mind—discharge from the service; not immediately, but as soon as possible. Many of us have given the prime years of our lives to live as free men. Now that the war is over, we are still here, decaying mentally, becoming bitter and hateful. We have done the job that the army "cut out for us" and are still being retained overseas with nothing in store but more idle time to think of not getting home.

I and my friends are pleading the representation against the trend toward tighter and tighter military control over United States manpower and over the government in general. We feel that the War Department is not keeping faith with the soldier, and we want restoration of that faith in our government. Above all, we ask to be kept informed as to what is in store for us.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES G. SHERMAN,
(Sgt.) James G. Sherman

36TH DIVISION REQUESTS PROBE

General Clark Criticized For Rapido River Engagement

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Members of the 36th division in reunion here today adopted almost unanimously a resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the division's ill-fated Rapido River engagement Jan. 20 and 21, 1944.

The resolution was read by Carl Phinney, Dallas attorney and former transportation officer of the division, and seconded by Claude C. Birkhead of San Antonio, a former division commander.

Capt. A. F. Fisher of Wichita Falls, who was with the 142nd infantry regiment, was the only man to speak against the adoption of the resolution, calling it "wrong."

"Be it resolved," the resolution concluded, "that the men of the 36th division association * * * petition the congress of the United States to investigate the Rapido River fiasco and take necessary steps to correct a military system that will permit an inefficient officer, such as General Mark W. Clark, to issue a command to destroy the young manhood of this country and to prevent future soldiers being sacrificed wastefully and uselessly."

The resolution further claimed the division lost approximately 2,900 men in the engagement.

Thirty-sixth members jumped to their feet and passed the resolution with a rebel yell. The Brownhood Bulletin said it counted only one dissenting vote when a "no" vote was called for.

"This is the eve," the resolution began, "of the second anniversary of the crossing of the Rapido River, a military undertaking that will go down in history as one of the colossal blunders of the Second World War.

"The 141st and 143rd infantry regimental combat teams caught the brunt of the holocaust. Every man connected with this undertaking knew it was doomed to failure because it was an impossible situation.

"This Rapido River was the main line of resistance. The German elements opposing the division had every foot of ground covered with fire, the high ground was held by Germans, and observation was perfect for them in directing the artillery.

"Patrols had reported that these enemy positions were strongly held, that the area was heavily mined on both sides of the river, and the German positions were wired and strongly fortified, and that the crossing was not tenable.

"Notwithstanding this information (which was in possession of the Fifth Army Commander), contrary to the repeated recommendations of the subordinate commanders, General Mark W. Clark ordered the crossing of the Rapido at several points.

"The results of the blunder are well know. The crossings were made under the most adverse conditions and required two nights to get elements of the two combat teams across.

"At daylight, the Germans shot the bridges out behind the 36th division troops and began a methodical destruction of our troops. The division suffered heavy casualties, amounting to approximately 2,900 men.

"It was such a colossal failure that one of the regimental commanders commented as follows: 'The river was strongly defended by a German force superior in numbers to our attacking force. The first attack was made at night and was not successful. On the night before, the British attack of the south had failed. The last attack by my regiment was made in daylight and was more decisively unsuccessful than the first.'

"Losses from attacks of this sort are tremendous in manpower and material and have a devasting effect upon those few troops who survive them. Officers and men lost in the Rapido River crossing cannot be replaced and the combat efficiency of a regiment is destroyed."

Captain Fisher, arguing against the resolution, said: "The 36th was outnumbered from Salerno through Rome."

DRIFTERS LOCATED 2,000 MILES AWAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Development of an underwater sound system enabling the location of air and ship survivors at sea as far as 2,000 miles from shore stations was announced today by the navy.

It was developed jointly by the navy and the oceanographic institution, Woods Hole, Mass.

Workings of the sea-rescue aid system, given the name of "Sofar" from the initial letters of the phrase "sound fixing and ranging," were explained as follows:

Survivors in a life raft drop a five-pound TNT bomb developed by navy ordnance, and increasing pressure explodes it at a depth of 3,000 to 4,000 feet.

The sound is picked up by operators of three widely-spaced shore stations, using hydrophones fixed at the 3,000-4,000 foot depth.

The operators, by comparing the times when the signal is received and referring to special charts, are able to plot the position of the explosion.

Thus they can locate within a square mile of sea survivors who are as far as 2,000 miles from shore stations, the navy said, adding that installations to cover the general area between the west coast and Hawaii are expected to be completed by summer.

"Sofar" may also become a navigational air for ships, but the navy said it probably is too slow for use in air navigation since as long as 40 minutes may pass between dropping the bomb and obtaining the position fix.

Sound travels through water at about 5,000 feet a little less than a mile—a second and takes 20 minutes to go 1,000 nautical miles.

"Sofar" was made possible by existence of a zone at the 2,000-to-6,000 foot level where sound travels vast distances because the sound waves are bent back above and below that depth, and thus are confined in the equivalent of a "speaking tube."

5-V CLUB GROWING FAST IN VENEZUELA

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—"A new and important youth movement—the 5-V Club'—is gaining in popularity among young people of Venezuela," Mario J. Perez of Caracas, Venezuela, said today.

Perez, national director of the 5-V Club, is visiting the United States to make a study of this country's 4-H clubs under the auspices of the Institute of Inter-American Affairs and the U. S. department of agriculture.

He is spending two weeks in Louisiana, conferring with 4-H Club leaders W. C. Abbot, Morris LaCroix and Farline Gandy at Louisiana State University and visiting several parish organizations, and will go to Washington, D. C., Jan. 26, returning to Venezuela by way of Puerto Rico.

"The five V's stand for Valor, Vigor, Veracity, Honor and Venezuela," Perez stated, explaining that "honor" in Spanish was 'Verguenzas."

The club, sponsored by Venezuela's agriculture department, was founded several years ago with the purpose of encouraging better farming, better home-making and better citizenship, the director said, and is open to persons ten years and older.

"The 4-H clubs have been of great service to agriculture in the United States," Perez declared. "The 5-V clubs, encouraging the qualities for which the club stands, are offering a samilar service to agriculture in Venezuela.

WALTER KELLOGG GETS CITATION

Through His Ability He Was Entrusted With Expenditure Of Billion Dollars

Secretary James Forrestal, of the navy, has commended Commander Walter W. Kellogg, of the United States naval reserve, for services that are set forth in the following citation:

"For outstanding performance of duty while serving as the senior naval officer associated with the army corps of engineers' central procuring agency for lumber procurement. Conducting the business relative to lumber requirements for both army and navy with the office of price administration and the war production board, Commander Kellogg rendered invaluable assistance to the corps of engineers in the entire lumber procurement program which handled the procurement of a total of twenty-three and one-half billion board feet of lumber at a cost exceeding one billion dollars.

"Personally responsible for the procurement of one billion board feet of hardwood, Commander Kellogg, by his initiative, judgment and energy in the discharge of numerous important and exacting duties, contributed materially to the successful prosecution of the war and his devotion to duty throughout a critical period was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States naval reserve.

"A copy of this citation has been made a part of Commander Kellogg's official record and he is hereby authorized to wear the Commendation Ribbon."

LOYD HAMPTON IS TO REPLACE CAGE

Promotion of Lloyd E. Hampton to the position of office manager of the Monroe division of United Gas Corporation, effective January 11, was recently announced by H. P. Carroll, operating manager.

He will replace J. S. Cage, who was recently appointed to the position of division manager.

Mr. Hampton, who comes to Monroe from Jacksonville, Tex., became connected with the United Gas Corporation in September, 1930, as an accounting clerk in the company's general offices in Houston, Tex. Since that time, he has held responsible positions in the company's offices in Beaumont and Liberty, Tex., and in McComb, Miss. His latest promotion places him in charge of the Monroe division office.

He was married in April, 1938, to Miss Jane Warren, of Beaumont, Tex. They have two children.

ANNIVERSARY OF KIWANIS SLATED

Civic Group 31 Years Old; Mayor Benoit In Proclamation

Commending the community service activities of Kiwanis International, founded 31 years ago this month at Detroit, Mayor H. H. Benoit has issued a proclamation setting aside the period of January 20 to 26 as Kiwanis Anniversary week in Monroe.

Mayor Benoit outlined the 1946 objectives of Kiwanis International in his proclamation and urged all citizens to support worthwhile community activities.

Kiwanis International, according to the proclamation, now embraces 153,000 business and professional leaders in more than 2,300 communities throughout the United States and Canada.

The Kiwanis Club of Monroe will observe the 31st anniversary of Kiwanis International at a meeting to be held at noon Wednesday, January 23, at the Virginia Hotel, Club President Ray Updegraff said today.

An outstanding feature of the anniversary program will be the reading of a message from Hamilton Holt, Macon, Ga., prominent Southern industrialist and president of Kiwanis International.

Mr. Updegraff said that Kiwanis International's administrative theme for 1946, "Build for Peace—Unity—Opportunity," also will be discussed at the meeting.

The mayor's proclamation follows:

Whereas, Kiwanis International was founded 31 years ago in Detroit, and

Whereas, Kiwanians during that time have endeavored to strengthen the local community, which participated wholeheartedly in the nation's successful war effort and now has turned its attention to industrial reconversion, and

Whereas, members of Kiwanis International will endeavor to develop an understanding of the United Nations Charter in support of world peace, aid returning veterans, strengthen democracy by personal acceptance of citizenship responsibilities, expand youth services to build character and citizenship, mobilize public opinion in support of individual enterprise and opportunity, and

Whereas, Kiwanians also are pledged to encourage sound programs of reconversion, conserve natural resources for sound national economy, further good will between Canada and the United States as an outstanding example of international cooperation, and develop national unity through increased emphasis on human and spiritual values,

Now therefore, I, H. H. Benoit, mayor of the city of Monroe, do hereby designate the period beginning Sunday, January 20, and continuing through Saturday, January 26, as Kiwanis Anniversary week in Monroe and urge all citizens to join with the 153,000 Kiwanians in 2,300 communities throughout the United States and Canada in supporting worthwhile civic activities.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Monroe to be affixed this 14th day of January in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-six.

2 DANCES ARE POLIO BENEFIT

Birthday Ball This Time To Be Called 'March Of Dimes'

Two "March of Dimes" dances will be held here on Saturday in connection with the annual National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis campaign. They will be held in Hotel Frances, Cherokee Terrace, and in the armory, two places being required to care for the expected overflow. The date is Saturday, January 26.

In former years, this has been called the president's birthday ball but now under changed conditions it will be designated as the "March of Dimes" ball.

Preparations for a big festive affair are under way and David C. Carter and C. B. Hair are in charge of the arrangements. Teflis Grotto will sponsor the event.

"Mile of Dimes" depositories are placed in many downtown conspicuous places and are receiving generous support. They were placed on January 14 and will remain through the month.

The Ouachita parish branch of the foundation will retain a large part of funds donated for use locally. The money goes to the national foundation headquarters to be used throughout the country in the war being waged in combatting infantile paralysis.

Trade Union membership in the United States and Canada rose from less than 3,000,000 workers to about 12,000,000 between 1933 and 1943.

L. B. FAULK POST MEETS MONDAY

Report From Building Committee Is Expected; Other Reports Slated

L. B. Faulk post No. 13 American Legion will hold its second meeting of January, at the Legion Home Monday evening, January 21, at 8:00 p.m.

Commander Arthur Smith, Jr., requests a full attendance of members at this meeting for the reason that a large class of applicants will be admitted to membership and some of the most important business to come before the post in some time will be brought up and discussed. A report from the building committee will be made and further plans in connection with the progress of the Memorial Building Fund will be announced.

A matter of vital importance to the legion is to be discussed so that the position of the post can be stated at the Annual Commanders and Adjutants Conference in Baton Rouge on February 2 and 3. Other committee reports will be given and an interesting program is assured.

Following the meeting refreshments will be served as usual.

An invitation is extended to any veteran who served between the dates of December 7, 1941, and September 2, 1945, to present themselves at the home at 7:30 o'clock, with their discharge certificate and they will be included in the group who will be admitted during the meeting.

The Aegean islands include Rhodes, Castelrosso and the Dodecanese group.

Approximately one-quarter of the wage and salary workers in the United States were covered by collective bargaining agreements before the war.

It is estimated that 1943 library book circulation in the United States amounted to about four books for every person in the nation.

Bright Picture—With Dark Spots

No realistic person will attempt to deny the seriousness or the magnitude of the economic problems facing this nation today. Nor can anyone of realism deny the possibility—if not the probability—that conditions may grow worse before they begin to improve.

There are strikes and threats of strikes. Reconversion hasn't progressed as rapidly as could have been possible under happier conditions. Many communities face problems of unemployment and relief for the first time in years. All of these are problems of which all of us are conscious because, as news, they have been emphasized of late.

Because of the emphasis, it is understandable if many of us conclude that the present economic picture of the United States is extremely dark, with a few bright spots scattered here and there.

Actually, that is not the picture at all. The true picture is a very bright one, marked by occasional dark spots. Instead of being in bad shape in an economic sense, this nation is in excellent condition. As a matter of fact, the United States has seen few boom times, as measured by employment, production, purchasing power and the like, comparable to those prevailing right now.

These, at least, are the statements made very recently by Paul G. Huffman, chairman of the Committee for Economic Development, and Walter D. Fuller, chairman of the committee's field development division. Based on information obtained from surveys and the most authentic available official sources, they report:

More than 52,000,000 persons are now employed—more than at any time in history except at the very peak of the recent war boom.

Only about 2,000,000 are unemployed, including returned veterans, displaced war workers and those on strike—a total smaller than the normal "floating" unemployment in periods of so-called prosperity.

Pent-up buying demand and power exceed, many times over, anything the nation ever has seen.

Reconversion in the nation as a whole was, on last January 1, ahead of the goals set for September, 1946—a statement not at all fantastic in the light of war-time production achievement.

Most areas are faced with the problem, not of unemployment, but of finding workers to fill available jobs.

So, if these statements are accepted at face value—and we see no reason why they shouldn't be—the present economic picture of the nation certainly is not one to cause despair. On the contrary, our position, to speak conservatively, is extremely fortunate.

However, if that is the condition, it certainly does not provide any reason for complacence. It should not blind anyone to the actuality of the problems that exist right now and, of far more importance, the potentialities of those problems.

They are problems which must be solved, or no one knows what the penalties may be. We can't be too far removed from conditions fully as bad as the worst pessimist among us imagines them now to be.

CHALLENGE TO EDUCATORS

America's colleges and universities today are confronted by one of the greatest challenges in their history. A million veterans whose education was interrupted by the war are looking for places on the campuses. And a normal number of non-veteran students is coming from the secondary schools.

If the colleges continue their conventional methods of operation there will not be nearly enough room this year for all the young men seeking a higher education. The dormitories are filled to overflowing and the classrooms are jammed. Veterans with the GI Bill of Rights in their pockets are having a hard time finding colleges willing to admit them and many civilians ready to take up their college courses are no better off.

It is not enough for the universities to tell these applicants that they have no room. Most of the veterans are already two or more years late in starting their careers because of the time they have spent in uniform. There is probably no way of taking care of all these applicants without concessions that the colleges are extremely reluctant to make. Instructors may be called on to teach larger classes than the best educational standards permit; faculties may be badly overworked. It may be necessary to provide emergency housing for students.

But it is better to try all these abnormal expedients than to blight the hopes of men who desperately want education and have no time to lose.

BASEBALL BARGAIN

The New York Giants have paid the St. Louis Cardinals $175,000 for Walker Cooper, talented baseball catcher. It was strictly a cash-on-the-barrel-head transaction, none of the amount being paid in players. From the standpoint of cash involved it was the third largest in baseball history. The Boston Red Sox paid $250,000 for Joe Cronin, while Dizzy Dean brought $185,000 into the Cardinals' treasury.

There are hundreds of fine players in organized baseball, but stars like Walker Cooper appear so rarely they command a high premium. They have a rare combination of physical and mental coordination which approaches play perfection. They are more than a baseball machine, a description which fits hundreds of others. They inspire the will to win in an entire club. Cooper is credited with turning the tide in a World Series contest by a single throw to second base.

Furthermore, they have a definite box office value. Thousands attend games to see men like Cooper play. Babe Ruth brought hundreds of extra thousands to the stands. In baseball, as in all other human endeavors, the Coopers have that extra quality which makes them stand out ahead of all the rest and makes them a bargain regardless of how high a figure is bid for their services.

IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19.—Peggy Ryan, tiffing with Universal bosses, threatens court action if she isn't given a contract release come next option time . . . Chili Williams, the Polka Dot gal, is plotting another try for screen success . . . With Milwaukee banning it in entirety and other censor boards demanding drastic changes, it looks like "Scarlet Street" will have anything but smooth sailing . . . Add good bets: That Jean Arthur, little mentioned for the role, will be top femme in the filming of "Life With Father."

Keenan Wynn, still suffering aftereffects from that motorcycle crash, has ultimatumed MGM for time off . . . Altar-bound: Songwriter Harold Adamson (McHugh and Adamson) and Hope White, the N. Y. writer-actress, here for screen tests . . . I'm told Don "Red" Barry and Peggy Stewart, the Republican serial queen, will remarry; they're parents of a three-year-old boy . . . Good news: Plans are being laid for an industry-wide drive to expose and run out of business the many bogus dramatic schools that have been looting would-be's with screen ambitions.

P. G. Wodehouse, the British author who was charged with collaborationist activities, but cleared, has hired a public relations man to smooth the way for his projected return to Hollywood . . . James Craig, who marketed 2,400 holiday turkeys last year, plans to raise 20,000 birds for 1946 . . . Don't be surprised if the Lois Andrews-Dave Street marriage ends by spring.

PREVIEW NIGHTS: Pic of the Week: Warner Brothers' "My Reputation" (Barbara Stanwyck - George Brent). Outstanding drama that will enhance the reputations of everyone concerned . . . RECOMMENDED: UA'S "Blithe Spirit" (Rex Harrison-Constance Cummings). One of Noel Coward's most charming plays makes one of the season's most charming pictures . . . Columbia's "Tars and Spars" (Janet Blair-Alfred Drake-Marc Platt). Ocean-going musical comedy that rides a wave of laughs . . . UA's "Abilene Town" (Randolph Scott-Ann Dvorak). He-man melodrama that rates a place on every action fan's must-see list . . . Universal's "Because of Him" (Deanna Durbin-Charles Laughton-Franchot Tone). The best Durbin picture in years . . . LOW BRIDGE: Monogram's "Sensation Hunters." You'll still be hunting when it's over . . . BEST PERFORMER: Barbara Stanwyck in "My Reputation." An actress who's always good achieves a new high.

I happened on an MGM set the other afternoon just as June Allyson took her place before the cameras for a close-up. To my amazement, she removed her wedding ring and handed it to her stand-in for safe keeping—an action almost unheard of in this town where 99 brides out of a hundred make publicity stock of their vows never to remove their marital badges. "You're being a bit unusual," I observed. "Maybe I am," she admitted. "But Dick and I have decided that the symbols of marriage are meaningless. The only thing that matters is the marriage itself." Somehow, I think the Dick Powell—June Allyson marriage is going to last.

During the past few months, not less than 15 stars (the latest one being Cornel Wilde, of 20th Century-Fox, have taken suspensions rather than play roles assigned them by their studios. Since there's still a talent shortage, they've "got away" with their rebellions, but I think they'll be exceedingly lucky if they're not taught, sooner or later, that what's sauce for the goose is also sauce for gander. In normal times a studio contract is an actor's best possession—but at the rate contractural obligations are now being disregarded, by the time normal conditions return, Hollywood contracts are very apt to be meaningless.

Catherine McLeod, the young Republic find, has sold her life story for filming. It deals with the fight of her aunt to keep her out of show business and, no doubt, when you see it on the screen, your sympathy will go to the girl. Knowing Hollywood, however, I wonder if Miss McLeod, before she's lived many years in the spotlight, won't have a good many moments when she'll feel that Auntie, after all, may have been right.

The New York critics' raves about Carol Bruce's performance in "Show Boat" hand me a smile, for Miss Bruce spent several years here in Hollywood, getting exactly nowhere. Now it's a foregone conclusion that the same movie moguls who overlooked her completely while she was begging for their attention will be bidding high, wide and handsome for the privilege of having her name on the dotted line. As usual, all they need to be great discoverers is to have someone else do the discovering.

OUR CHILDREN

SCHOOL VISITORS

Parents should visit the schools which their children attend. The education of children is a partnership job parents and teachers working together for the best interests of all the children. Please notice that working together is the reason for the visiting.

A school is a workshop and more. It is a place of socialized living where much activity of body and mind goes on every minute. Because of the liveliness and the work organization, order, routine and law must be accepted. Visitors must not break into this organized, routined program and order lest they disrupt a carefully balanced scheme, a carefully established atmosphere in which the children move. To do so is to waste precious time, interrupt rhythmic growth and unseat the teacher.

The teacher is the leader, the authority in the classroom. No one's how-ever well-intentioned, however skilled in knowledge and technique can displace the teacher without undoing the work of the class concerned and sending a wave of unrest, insecurity and fear throughout the school.

It is evident then that a visitor should make an appointment. The sort of visitor who thinks that making an appointment to visit the school puts the teachers on guard and covers up mistakes and wrongdoing is one unacquainted with the nature of children and teachers and the ways of both in general. The most paddy-footed hunter can go to any school any time he has an appointment there and know for a certainty that nothing can be hidden from him for longer than a quarter of an hour. Children cannot masquerade longer than that, nor can any teacher cover the usual routine performances of her class for even so long a period as fifteen minutes.

Make the appointment, tell what your visit is intended to do for you, meet the teacher, the principal and the children with an open mind and a sympathetic heart and you will see everything you wish to see, and much more than you ever hoped to see.

Remember always that a visitor is not a supervisor and so should not attempt to criticise anything he sees in the classroom. Any question should be asked of the principal in his office and not of the teacher in the classroom. If anybody who chooses can enter a classroom and tell the teacher how, what, when, and where he should teach there can be no school progress. Authority rests with the head of the school, and visitors are in the position of guests, not inquisitors.

An accurate record of baby's growth often has greater value than merely the sentimental. Angelo Patri tells you why it is important to have such information in his leaflet P-23, "The Record Book."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday School Lesson for Jan. 27. Scripture: Exodus, 24-40, especially 28:1; 37:1-9, 20-29.

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

The Scripture for this lesson in verses 20-29 of the 35th chapter of Exodus is very remarkable, considering the times out of which it comes, and is worthy of careful observation of its significant phrasing. It relates to crude times, of worship in a ten, far ante-dating the splendor and magnificence of the Temple of Solomon, or the immense grandeur of the Temple of Herod, yet in it is expressed the true spirit of what sincere worship ought to be at any time, and in any place.

Note the phrasing: it tells how "every one whose heart stirred him up, and every one whom his spirit made willing" brought offerings for the work of the tabernacle of the congregation. It was a consecration on the part of all, both men and women, of the best that they had to offer, and of the best that they could do—for they brought not only the dyed stuffs of blue and purple and scarlet, and the things of linen and goats' hair, and fine woods and skins; and the women not only brought their jewelry but they brought also the work of their hands, the things fashioned in wood and metal by the men, the things woven and spun by the women, the "wise-hearted" women.

Willingness was of the essence of all that they gave, and willingness is at the heart of all true worship. The high level of worship, however, is not all reached in giving not even in voluntary giving. People have made their sincere and devout sacrifice to idols, bringing their treasures to dumb and lifeless gods of wood and stone; and the things that adorn cathedrals and churches may have little more real significance and spiritual value than the things offered to idols, if there be not intelligent minds and loving hearts associated with the offerings for adornment.

The truest adornment of cathedrals and churches must always be the souls of sincere worshippers, drawn by the cords of love to God and to one another. The worship of the tabernacle was only a beginning, a foundation for the true worship of the heart. It was thus that Paul declared that gifts, and even the giving of one's body to be burned, profited nothing if there were not love in the heart; and Jesus defined true worship as consisting, not in outward gifts, but in its spiritual content. "God is a spirit and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth."

But worship in spirit and in truth is not giftless worship. The measure of our inward devotion is often the extent and depth of outward gifts. Is not this particularly true at the present time, when throughout the world there is such dire need and suffering? If religion at its highest consist of love for God and our fellowmen, its needful expression is in the things that will feed the hungry, clothe the cold and naked, and bring warmth and protection to the homeless and suffering millions.

It is in this large cathedral of God's world that we must with willing spirits and hearts "stirred up" make our offerings ample and effective today. That ancient expression of Jewish worship in the tabernacle in the wilderness was a great and noble outburst of community spirit; and today our community is the whole world, and all humanity.

The line of demarcation separating the Pacific belt from the Mountain belt winds in such a devious path that it cuts in from the Nevada border, surrounds Wendover, then back to the border, and west, omitting most of Idaho which extends at least 200 miles west of here.

News BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate)
(Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The least noticed or discussed major news of these days is the permanent new Mr. Byrnes at Moscow and implemented at the London UNO meeting.

Neither congressmen nor people are talking much about it, although the effects upon people everywhere will be greater, perhaps, and last longer than the effects of current strikes and demobilization (the two topics absorbing the popular mind).

The unfolding facts disclose the basic deal, which the American state secretary made for renewed co-operation of Russia in the world organization, is founded upon a validation of Russian conquests in eastern Europe and American co-operation to secure the most valued posts in the UNO for Russia.

Chairmanship of the "political and social committee", which will handle such affairs throughout the world, went to Dr. Manuilsky of the Ukraine, one of the many Soviet Socialist Republics (a geographical Russian state) which Stalin caused Mr. Roosevelt to recognize as an independent new nation at Yalta.

"The economic and financial committee" chairmanship went to Konderski of Russian-dominated Poland. (The Byrnes-Molotov candidate for president of the assembly earlier narrowly failed of election.)

But Byrnes was careful to keep almost equally divided between the Big Three the more important "economic and social council", dealing with the same delicate world problems now obviously involved in revolutionary changes.

This council is a little autonomous UNO in itself, being literally empowered to go into practically any subject in any nation, and even the top Security Council of UNO only has authority over its general appropriations. This restriction on its funds is the only practical restraint upon its scope.

On this council the British, United States and Russia each have about equal representations, each able to control five votes in all reasonable expectations, while France has two and China one.

For the United States we can no doubt count on Chile, Colombia, Cuba and Peru in a pinch; while the British might be expected to sway Belgium (?), Canada, Greece (?), and India. The Russians own the Ukraine, control Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, and seem to be able to count on Norway (?).

Thus the council, which was contrived at San Francisco to bring the new deal to the world, starts out with equal power of American Democracy, British Socialism and Russian Communism. These are the brass tacks of the matter.

But underneath this new tacking is the new American foreign policy of rapproachment with Russia, as against Britain, which has never been explained. The Byrnes speeches at UNO are as unrevealing as his post-Moscow statements here, as to point and purpose. The reasoning behind our new policy has never been presented, even unofficially.

My inquiries have developed the following understanding of many a Byrnes friend as to what changed him from his adamant stand for the Atlantic charter, and Roosevelt freedoms for small European nations at the foreign ministers breakup, in London last summer, to this new policy (read no more into this, than their statement):

The British, who are our natural world allies, being similarly Democratic, had proved no more co-operative inside then out in all post-war dealings. Their Socialist government was rather plainly trying to move us as its pawn, just as the Russians would like to use us.

Apparently Byrnes figured he could do as well siding with the Russians as he had been doing (with total lack of success for anything) while siding with the British, who earlier had helped us set up this UNO system against a reluctant Russia while Churchhill was in power.

So Byrnes, whose mind works like that of a wholly practical politician, decided to try siding with the Russians awhile, to get UNO started.

As this is the formative period of the new world, the price in principles proved rather high. The Russian conquests have been validated in perpetuity throughout Europe, with a corresponding decline in the chances of any of those nations ever getting the Atlantic charter for themselves.

Atomic concessions were made to an extent which is not even yet clear, although it is quite clear the atom bomb is to be used to guarantee this new-formed world forever, in addition to armies and airplanes (Byrnes' speech at London).

But both congressmen and people are somehow pleased that UNO can get going, and they are disinclined to make a point of the circumstances. Neither Mr. Truman and Mr. Brynes has ever been asked to go into these matters in a press conference. Indeed, their official position is there has been no change in policy.

BANKERS WILL HOLD MID-WINTER MEETING

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Members of the Louisiana Bankers Association will hold their seventh mid-winter conference on the campus of Louisiana State University here Monday through Wednesday.

Scheduled to preside over morning sessions is James C. Atkins, Association president and cashier of the Continental-American Bank & Trust Co. of Shreveport, while Harold L. Sims, vice president of the state group and president of the Citizens Bank and Trust Co. of Thibodaux, will preside over the afternoon session.

New York Day By Day
By CHARLES B. DRISCOLL
Title Reg U. S. Patent Office

NEW YORK—I must admit that I cherished a major dislike of Theodore Dreiser until I met him, a few years ago, and spent an afternoon and evening with him. My reaction to the experience was, "Well, I'll never dislike anybody again if I've not had the opportunity to talk with him."

My impression was that Dreiser didn't know how to write English, was vastly overestimated because Henry Mencken had taken a fancy to his stuff, and that he exercised bad taste in some of his writing, especially about his relationship with women.

My literarary agent at that time was William C. Lengel, also Dreiser's agent, Bill, whom I had known in Wichita many years before, had been Dreiser's secretary, at one period of Bill's interesting and varied career. He admired the rugged author from Terre Haute, almost to the point of worship. If your secretary can think well of you after a long association, you must have something. So I said yes, I'd like to meet Dreiser.

I found him the opposite of what I had expected. I thought he would be rude, arrogant, up-stage. He was quiet, friendly to the point of being anxious to make a new friend, and not at all set up about himself.

He was 74 when he died on a recent day. He had lived through struggle, phenomenal success, and bitter years. "Sister Carrie" plummeted him into fame, which, after a few years, was greatly heightened by "An American Tragedy." Most critics agree that Dreiser never learned anything about English syntax, but the customers lined the counters to buy his book.

His vogue passed. He had several damaging spots of publicity, notably when he was accused of plagiarism by critics of the highest standing. He spent his last years in quiet obscurity, but apparently held no grudges.

Mrs. Lloyd Cantrell, Neosho, Mo., agrees with me that it is not at all necessary to import sage. She grows it, as well as dill, in her yard, and finds the freshly dried sage much better and spicier than any we used to import from Mexico or elsewhere. She also likes the wild mustard which grows so plentifully in the Middle West, and cooks it as greens in spring. Cooked with lettuce, wild beets, dock and poke, it is delicious, she reports.

Comparatively few people who live in the midst of the wild plenty of American greens and herbs know the pleasure that comes from eating fresh food out of your own weed garden.

There is one covered bridge left in Greenville county, S. C., and, judging by a picture of it sent me by J. G. Sullivan, of Laurens, it is not in the best of condition. My informants say that there are more covered bridges in good condition in Indiana than in any other state. . . . Does Texas grow good oranges? Well, yes, judging by a box of prize-winners sent me by Lee Segall, of Houston. . . . It interests me that outsiders are almost as interested in our odd product, F. H. La Guardia, as we are. The Pottsville Journal had a good editorial about him, sent me by Mary H. Spangler, of Llewellyn, Pa. It says of the Little Flower, "A complete and unabashed ham, he bellows, whines, wheedles and coos." Well, yes. If making a fool of yourself on the air is art, Mr. La Guardia is Leonardo da Vinci.

2 KOREANS KILLED AND MANY INJURED

SEOUL, Korea, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Two Koreans were killed, many were injured and 120 were arrested today in rioting that raged through Seoul after demonstrations ostensibly against the proposed Allied trusteeship erupted into a conflict between parties of the Left and Right.

Quiet was restored in the capital tonight after 24 hours of uproar and violence that spread to the back door of the governor general's palace, headquarters of Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, U. S. occupation commander.

Hodge, in a radio address, called for an end to the parades and demonstrations, which at times took place in full view of Russian and American delegations at work on a temporary control plan for Korea.

Maj. Gen. Archer L. Lerch, new governor general for the American occupation zone in southern Korea, followed with a warning to Koreans that the disorders "are hurting your cause badly."

Violence flared last night when members of the Rightist Korean students' league paraded in front of the Russian consulate, U. S. army headquarters and the Chosen hotel, headquarters of American and Russian delegations.

Bearing banners denouncing the proposed five-year trusteeship for Korea, the marchers moved on to the offices of the newspaper Inmin Bo, organ of the Leftist peoples' party, where equipment was wrecked and desks were pitched out windows.

Korean police moved in and during the fighting that ensued a Korean man was shot and a woman was injured.

The Korean police struck again this morning, this time at headquarters of the Leftist "preparatory army" in the rear of the governor general's palace.

American military police estimated that more than 200 Leftists were in the headquarters. Two Koreans were killed and many were arrested in a short but hot battle.

FOUNDED "BIRD CITY"

Bird-loving E. A. Mellhenny, Avery Island, La., in 1892 placed eight young snowy egrets inside a large 50-foot-square cage containing trees and water, and fed them until the following autumn, when the cage was removed. The birds disappeared, only to return the following spring to nest. From two nests that season, the colony grew into a large wildlife refuge known today as "Bird City."

LEADERS SOUGHT FOR GIRL SCOUTS

Drive Will Be Conducted In Ouachita Parish February 11-22

Leaders for a full program of Girl Scouting in the Twin Cities are being called by the Ouachita Parish Girl Scout Council comprising men and women who are completing plans for a leadership drive, February 11-22, with Mrs. Rodney Cline as chairman. She is being assisted by Mrs. W. R. Comer and several committee members.

Girl Scouting is provided for financially through the Twin City Community Chest. The next step which is essential for an effective program is the provision of additional leaders to make possible the organization of additional troops.

Today, 315 girls in Monroe and West Monroe are registered Scouts. At least 200 more are waiting to become members. The chief concern of the council now is to secure leaders for these troops, declares Mrs. P. G. Rowe, Girl Scout commissioner of Ouachtia parish.

Every Girl Scout troop has at least one adult leader over 21 years of age and one or more assistant leaders at least 18 years old. Leadership does not require expert training. The type of person is more valuable than the skills or techniques which that individual may impart. Understanding of young people, patience, imagination and maturity of judgment are the qualities that are essential.

The service of the Girl Scout organization to the girls of this area and everywhere are limited or expanded in direct proportion to the number of women or men who volunteer for service. It depends upon grown-ups to bring-or deprive-girls of the fun and benefits which Scouting can give them.

Perhaps Girl Scouting is even more vital now that victory has been won. Future citizens of the world in which all conditions and precepts of the past have changed need special and careful training to equip themselves for their responsibilities.

In the words of Mrs. Harry S. Truman, honorary president of the Girl Scouts:

"The Girl Scout plan of work is one which should appeal to all older women of this country, and is a challenge to our younger citizenry to prepare themselves for the many changing conditions which will confront our society in years to come. It furnishes an excellent base for work in this country, and the ideals it outlines for international co-operation are infinite in their possibilites for good."

Quick Relief from Pile Irritation

RUSTON RALLY TO BE RESUMED

Basketball Tournament Is Scheduled From 24 Parishes

RUSTON, La., Jan. 19.—(Special)—North Louisiana's annual high school rally, suspended since 1942 because of the war, will be resumed at Louisiana Tech beginning February 22-23, with basketball teams from 24 parishes invited to take part in a basketball tournament at that time, members of the rally executive committee have announced.

Deadline for entry of boys' and girls' teams for the meet has been set for February 10, the group announced, with an entry fee of $3 required for each team.

Tournaments in tennis, volleyball and softball will be held Friday and Saturday, April 5-6, with literary events and track and baseball scheduled for April 12-13.

In announcing changes that have been made in rally events, the committee stated that all eighth grade subjects have been dropped from the meet because most high schools no longer include the eighth grade.

Also dropped from the meet will be girls' track and field events, junior mathematics, book two; first-year bookkeeping, first-year general science and commercial arithmetic.

Recommended for addition was two years of Spanish.

A bulletin containing the complete details of each of the events and subject matter covered is being prepared and will be mailed to all high schools in this area, A. W. Ford, rally secretary, explained.

Members of the rally committee include H. G. Robinson, principal of Homer High school, chairman; G. S. Manning, principal of Calhoun High school, vice-chairman; A. W. Ford, Louisiana Tech, rally secretary; J. D. Koonce, principal of Jonesboro High school; R. S. Hargis, Rayville High school principal; F. C. Haley, superintendent of Claiborne parish schools; Jack Hayes, principal of Ouachita Parish High school, Monroe, and J. A. Garrett, principal of Bonita High school, now on military leave.

FAVOR INCREASE IN SCHOOL FUNDS

State Board Of Education Proposes $10,000,000 Increase

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Increases in both school operating and construction funds by a total of nearly $10,000,000 a year have been approved by the state board of education for submission to the Louisiana legislature.

Frank A. Godchaux of Abbeville was reelected board president at a meeting yesterday, and Mrs Eleanore Meade of Gramercy reelected vice-president.

Joseph E. Gibson, state director of higher education, told the board housing of veterans was a serious problem "at every one of our colleges."

The increases suggested by the board include an addition of $4,000,000 for operations, by raising the per educable amount in the state from $22.50 $4,500,000 for new buildings, $800,000 more for operation of colleges and special schools and an additional $500,000 for vocational agriculture.

Approximate amounts approved by the board for colleges and special schools under its jurisdiction for each year of the coming biennium, compared with amounts appropriated by the legislature for its last regular session, were:

Northwestern State College, $805,000 from $616,000; Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, $348,721 from $838,000; Southwestern Louisiana Institute, $1,099,000 from $858,000; Southeastern Louisiana College, $435,000 from $248,000; Southern University, $519,000 from $377,000; Louisiana Negro Normal at Grambling $180,000 from $115,000; state school for blind, $88,000 from $78,000; state school for deaf, $211,000 from $197,000; state school for Negro deaf, $48,000 for first year and $47,000 for second year, from $34,000 each year; state school for Negro blind, $46,000 and $40,000, from $30,500.

General increases for state schools will be asked, Joseph E. Gibson, director of higher education, declared, because of higher living costs, increased enrollments, particularly of veterans, and as an inducement to teachers to stay with the smaller schools and colleges.

Other actions taken by the board today included:

Approval of a resolution authorizing the state department of education to enter into agreement with the veterans' administration covering instruction under the vocational rehabilitation program for veterans.

Authorization to reduce athletic scholarships at the various colleges from 50 to 40 per year.

Approval of a policy of granting faculty members leaves of absence with pay of at least six weeks every five years for resident graduate study. To be included in their requested budgets are $10,000 each per year for Tech, Southwestern, Northwestern, Southeastern and South, and $5,000 for the Grambling Negro College for this purpose.

No action, pending further investigation, on the problem of housing returning veterans at state schools and colleges, a matter which has been termed by Gibson "an emergency that is only beginning to develop," and passed over a resolution permitting substitution of military service for teaching experience in determining eligibility for higher class of teachers certificates.

Approval of a request, which will require legislative action, to change the name of the Louisiana Negro Normal and Industrial Institute to Grambling College of Louisiana.

Approval of an application by the Cameron parish school board for permission to operate a school with average attendance of less than 10 pupils.

Approval of a resolution allowing $200 a month allotment to visiting teachers in the equalization formula.

Authorization to set tuition charged veterans at state trade schools at $15 to $25 a month, depending on courses taken.

Approval of a resolution setting up a revolving fund for the purchase of surplus government property for state schools and colleges.

The board also authorized expenditure of $200 for the site of the Avoyelles parish trade school at Cottonport; drawing up of architect's plans for repairs to Martin Hall at Southwestern; expenditure of $4,200 for repairs to the school for Negro blind, and payment of claims of the firms of Favrot and Reed and Neil for architectural services in connection with the swimming pool at Southwestern.

The board announced plans to meet again, as a committee of the whole, February 18 and 19. The place of the meeting is to be announced at a later date.

MADRID, Jan. 19.—There is an old Spanish proverb that says a woman should be kept in the house with the door locked and one leg broken.

That's the way the boys here thought about it only so far back as when I first came to Europe during World War One. But you ought to see the so-called "weaker sex" now! The girls have been cut loose from their duenna's apron strings and are competing with the men fairly well all along the line.

Before going further I should explain that this really is Mrs. Mack's story. I had noted that the dark-eyed senoritas are easy to look at, for that's one of the things a professional observers would note. I hadn't thought much more about it—well, not very much more—but my distaff partner got interested in feminine activities and has rendered this report.

This is indeed a different world from what the mothers of the present generaton knew. Stern custom kept the women and girls largely in their own homes. If an unmarried girl went out doors she was accompanied by her mother or her duenna (chaperone), an elderly but spry creature who was acquainted with the wild ways of wolves.

Marriages often were arranged by the parents of the couples as a matter of "convenience." If it was a love match, the courtship was conducted by remote control. The young man, having fallen in love with a beauty he saw walking in the park with her duenna, would follow at a respectful distance until she noticed him. This might happen a number of times until finally the suitor would venture to write a note declaring his passion and might be rewarded by having his beloved speak to him from the balcony of her home.

This long distance love making might run along for two or three years after which the young man would ask the girl's parents for her hand in marriage. If his social and financial standing was all right, he might get his girl.

But having won his woman, the young man proceeded to lock her up in her new home, safe from the outside world. So the cycle of courtship and marriage went on from generation to generation, with considerably more formality among the aristocracy.

No so today. The young hopeful takes his girl out to dinner and the theater or a dance, even as you and I. And they don't need a chaperone any more. To be sure, the more conservative families still stick to some of the old forms. For instance the current newspapers carry notices announcing that the parents of such and such young men have asked the parents of such and such young women for their hands in marriage. This notice is known as a "petition for hand" and is a formality which probably means that the young couple themselves have decided to get married.

Along with this has come the entrance of women into business and public life. They tell you here that this change has been due in great measure to acquaintance with the freedom of American women.

That's not the only way in which the New World has influenced has influenced Spain, for Madrid follows many of our styles in women's clothing, especially those emphasized by Hollywood films. The Spanish senoritas' makeup also is Hollywood.

FRANK BUCK IS TO SPEAK HERE

Intrepid Explorer Will Tell Of Out-Of-The-Way Places In Orient

Frank Buck, noted author and wild animal collector, will be the attraction at the Neville High school auditorium, Tuesday night.

The background of Frank Buck's hazardous experiences and new dramatic lecture is now the very heart of the post-war world crisis. The intrepid Buck knows intimately the jungles of South Asia, India, the Malay peninsula, Burma, Sumatra, Java, Nepal, Borneo, New Guinea, the Sulu Islands and the Philippines as well as the African and South American jungles—all formerly remote places that proved recently world battlegrounds.

Frank Buck's wealth of information about these parts of the world in the searching spotlight of recent world history, gives an interesting slant to his lectures. He discusses various places of present-day interest, presents his knowledge concerning them, and relates his amazing adventures.

WILL INITIATE NIGHT CLASSES

N. J. C. To Start This Work Monday; Deadline Set For Enrolling

Students who are interested in enrolling in night school courses at Northeast Junior College are requested to do so at an early date. Classes that are already organized will meet as scheduled, beginning at 7 p. m. each night this week, announced W. L. Perkins, director of the night school. Enrollment for these courses will not be permitted after the close of the week.

Additional classes may be organized at any time, however, provided at least eight persons request them. A student may register for as many as four courses.

Enrollment in the night school has been encouraging, Mr. Perkins said. In the list of persons who are finding it profitable to take college work at night are many employed G. I.'s.

Former service men and women are requested to bring photostatic copies of their discharge records when they register. These will be mailed with applications for G. I. benefits to the Veterans' Administration.

Two new courses that have been added to curricula open to night school students are photography and radio repair. These are being offered as a result of several requests for such work. Persons interested in these courses or others which may be scheduled at night are asked to telephone Mr. Perkins at 4200.

An additional service which Northeast Junior College is offering this second semester is extension of college work to discharged service men and women who do not hold high school diplomas. Special entrance examinations will be given to veterans who lacked a few units in graduating from high school but who are eager to enter college as regular freshmen. N. J. C. is making provision for such students by carrying out this testing policy which is being adopted by institutions of higher learning throughout the nation.

The tests will be given under the supervision of A. L. Tatum, registrar, beginning at 9 a. m. Monday, January 21, and continuing until noon on Tuesday, January 22. This amount of time will be sufficient for everyone taking the examinations, Mr. Tatum points out. Students planning to take the tests should report to the registrar's office on the first floor of T. O Brown Hall.

These tests which were prepared by the United States Armed Service Institute, are designed to measure the student's intellectual power rather than his rate of work. The tests will be given, therefore, on the basis of permitting the student to take all of the time he needs.

Those passing the examinations will be eligible to enroll for regular work at the college at the beginning of the second semester on February 4.

For additional information on these special G. I. tests, call Mr. Tatum, registrar, at 4200.

JUNIOR CHAMBER GROUP WILL MEET

A meeting of the membership committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was held Friday afternoon at the Chamber office.

Mr. John Evans, chairman, discussed several methods of financing Junior Chamber dues. The committee outlined a plan for submitting prospect names at a weekly breakfast which will be held for this committee.

It is believed that there are several hundred young men in Monroe and West Monroe who are eligible for Junior Chamber membership. Through affiliation of the Junior Chamber these men will have an opportunity to render valuable community service and they will also profit by their social contact, Mr. Evans stated.

Members of this committee are: John Evans, Simon Johnson, Alfred Cohen, Sammy Sax, Paul Cowan, A. W. Branch, Bob Hanna, F. B. Chase, H. T. Harlan and S. R. Biossat.

GERMANY URGES INFLATION WAR

Tells Central Grammar P.-T. A. To Exert Effort To Keep Down Prices

The necessity of price control was stressed in a talk by R. W. Germany, chief clerk of the war price and rationing board in Monroe. His talk was given before members of Central Grammar school P.-T. A. Wednesday afternoon.

He cited many figures and stated in conclusion:

"During the war, the relative stability of the cost of living has been due to the price control work of the government and the people. Teachers and other school people have made a real contribution toward the development of a better understanding of and fuller compliance with this part of the nation's over-all program of economic stabilization. In the immediate future, teachers can continue their efforts toward holding prices down in their own communities, thus safeguarding the standards of living of all residents and particularly those on relatively fixed or even reduced incomes. Through these efforts also, they can help prevent the disastrous cycle of postwar inflation, then depression which could occur in the months and in the years just head."

Mr. Germany urged the group to refer to the article in the Louisiana P.-T. A. bulletin which was sent out by the OPA. This, he said, clearly states the facts in the matter and stresses the importance of action.

Mrs. Eulalia McCoy, chairman of the program committee, presented a group of children who gave piano selections. Each was introduced by Irma Grace Stevens.

The program was as follows:

"A Christmas Carol"—Patricia Patterson.

A March—Peggy Wooten.

Jolly Darkness—Alta Louise Faircloth.

All Time—Patricia Van Landingham.

Tina—Irma Grace Stevens.

Song, "Blue Bells of Scotland," Dorothy Tyson and Juanita Bass.

The president, Mrs. Frank Patterson, presided. Mr. Germany offered prayer and the pledge of allegiance to the flag was given.

Mrs. McCoy's room won the attendance record.

HEATER CAUSES FIRE

A hot water heater was blamed for a fire in the kitchen of Rainbow Inn on the Columbia Road Saturday at 8:10 a. m., according to firemen who extinguished the blaze. The building was reported owned and occupied by W. A. "Smitty" Smith. Short in a neon sign was the cause of a fire at 2415 South Grand street at 9:21 a. m., Saturday. The building was reported owned by E. N. Steen.

ST. PASCHAL'S CATHOLIC CHURCH HAS ANNIVERSARY

Many Improvements Made Since Church Established Five Years Ago

On Jan. 19, 1941, the Most Rev. Daniel F. Desmond, D. D., Bishop of Alexandria, assisted by the Very Rev. Vincent Schrempp, O. F. M. Provincial of the Franciscan Province of the Sacred Haert, dedicated and blessed the new St. Paschal's Church in West Monroe. The walls of the new edifice were blessed by His Excellency within and without and this was followed by the celebration of Holy Mass by the Very Rev. Provincial.

This memorable occasion will be recalled by the pastor and the parishioners of St. Paschal's today. Although no formal celebration will be held, a High Mass of thanksgiving will be celebrated at 9:00 A. M. by the Rev. Henry Freiburg, O. F. M., founder of the parish and its present pastor. In the evening at 7:30 P. M. a special compline service will be sung by the school children and solemn Benediction will be given. A souvenir booklet with pictures and a short history of the parish will be given to all the parishioners at Masses Sunday morning.

St. Paschal's Church was the first Catholic church to be established in the thriving little city of West Monroe. For many years before 1941 the Catholics of this city had to attend services at the larger and older church of St. Matthew's in Monroe. It had been realized for some time by His Excellency, Bishop Desmond, that the Catholics of West Monroe should have their own church. He appealed to the Very Rev. Vincent Schrempp, O. F. M., Provincial of the Franciscans in St. Louis, Mo. Not only was West Monroe offered to the Franciscan Order, but also a large area around West Monroe, including Union, Lincoln, Morehouse and Richland Parishes.

This large territory had just a small nucleus of Catholics in several communities and the care of these was turned over to the Franciscan Fathers. All of this area had long belonged to the jurisdiction of the pastor of St. Matthew's Church, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. N. F. Vandergaer who for many years by himself and later through his assistants, travelled in various ways and often under great handicaps throughout this part of the State, administering to the sparsely scattered Catholics of the region. Some of the larger communities were now developed enough to need a resident priest, and with the coming of the Franciscans this would be possible. At the same time the Fathers would be able to take over some of the work among the colored people of this section.

The first Franciscan priest to arrive for permanent work in this part of the State was the Rev. Anselm Reckamp, O. F. M., who came to Monroe Dec. 30, 1939. He took up his residence at the St. Francise Sanitarium. A new church for colored people had been built on 18th street in Monroe, and Father Anselm was to organize the parish. The parish is now in a thriving condition after five and a half years of labor of Father Anselm. It has a large school and is growing. Last summer Father Anselm was transferred to Chicago, and more recently has been assigned to work in Bolivia, South America.

About six months after Father Anselm came to Monroe, two other Franciscans arrived, Rev. Henry Freiburg, O. F. M., and Rev. Jasper Mauss, O. F. M. The former was to begin work on the west side of the river in West Monroe and Father Jasper was to take over the care of St. Francis Sanitarium and to help out in other institutions and missions. All three lived for the time being at the hospital.

Property had been bought by the Most Rev. Bishop in West Monroe before the arrival of the Franciscans. It was on North Seventh street and was a pasture for the neighboring cows as well as a WPA dumping grounds. In area it was about a city block, separated from the adjoining block to the west by the roadbed of an abandoned railroad. The first effort made was to procure this second block. Through one large donation of Mr. John Spatafora, of Monroe, and several purchases the second lot was finally procured for the parish.

On one of the lots of this second piece of property a small house was being built and had just been completed during the summer the Fathers came. This house was bought and was moved across the property from Wilson to Woodrow street. It was the first home of the Fathers and was intended to become later the nucleus of the Sisters' Convent. From this little house of four rooms the Fathers went out on Sundays and during the week to their various places of work.

Ground was broken for the new church in West Monroe on Oct. 26, 1940, and the church was used the first time in an unfinished condition for Midnight Mass Christmas of 1940. Several weeks later His Excellency, Bishop Desmond, and the Very Rev. Provincial, Father Vincent, officially opened and dedicated the church to divine services. This was Jan. 19, 1941.

After the church was completed various other parish ventures were made and these resulted successively in a new school, a new residence or friary for the priests, an addition to the Sisters' Convent, and more recently a new cafeteria for the children of the school. Also a new cemetery has been bought as a part of the parish development.

The church and school have both had a favorable growth. The parish numbers over a hundred families, and the school has advanced from four grades with 38 children to eight grades with 115 children. The Sisters in charge are the Franciscan Sisters of Our Lady of Perpetual Help from St. Louis, Mo.

CLOTHING STILL IS VITAL NEED

Many People Here Urged To Lay Out All Possible Garments

The Victory Clothing Campaign is fast approaching its end and there is a lot of work to be accomplished. Each person is urged to inspect his wardrobe and to lay out every garment that he or she cannot wear.

These clothes are going to war-torn Europe where the people are in tatters with no chance of obtaining warm, substantial clothes.

We in America have suffered little from the war, in a physical sense. The least we can do is to help clothe the naked of Europe.

Millard Mitchell, who is in charge of the drive which closes the last day of January, states that while many have contributed clothing that is so vitally needed, that many have failed to give the matter attention. He urges that this be done at once.

Collection depots will be all of the schools in Monroe and West Monroe, including Northeast Junior College, all of the fire stations in Monroe and the post office in Monroe and the City Hall in West Monroe. These clothes will be picked up and taken to a central station where they will be packed for shipping.

LOT OF FOOTBALLERS KNOW WHAT HE MEANS

OMAHA—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, director of the Manhattan project which developed the atomic bomb, said during a visit here he has developed a stock reply to the question: "Isn't it just another weapon?"

His reply: "Yeah, just as the West Point eleven is just another football squad."

CLINTON MAN IS KILLED IN MISHAP

ALEXANDRIA, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—John McQueen Wright, 31, of Clinton, La., was killed instantly in a highway accident just north of the Rapides-Avoyelles parish line near Bunkie today, State Police Sergeant W. A. Penny said.

Penny said J. M. Thigpen, 23, of Oakdale, La., a recently discharged soldier, was seriously injured and Mrs. Lois W. Middlebrook of Shreveport suffered undetermined injuries in the accident.

Penny gave the following account of the accident:

Wright was driving north. He tried to pass another automobile while two south-bound cars approached. His car sideswiped one of these, driven by J. W. Briley of Hammond, then was in collision with the automobile by Mrs. Middlebrook.

Thigpen was a passenger in Wright's automobile, Penny said. Another passenger, J. Ray of Oakdale, escaped injury, as did Briley, he added.

Thigpen and Mrs. Middlebrook were taken to the Bunkie clinic.

Chinese Bully And Insult Each Other When Telephoning

Interpretation By

James D White

(Associated Press War Analyst)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—One of the deeper mysteries about China is why the Chinese bully and insult each other over the phone.

Foreigners long have wondered how it is that this ancient race, normally polite and considerate far beyond our habits, often displays the telephone manners of a drill sergeant with a hangover.

It goes like this:

The phone rings, and a Chinese picks up a receiver. He barks a rude equivalent of "Hello Hello Hello," using a term which might better be translated as "Hey, You Lug."

This irritates the person at the other end of the line, so he snaps back with another "Hello Hello Hello," and adds crossly, "where are you?"

(Just why he doesn't ask "who are you?" Isn't clear. No one asks that until both parties have worked themselves up into a fury.)

Eventually one side does give up and admit "where" he is.

He does this, literally, by saying where he works.

(Foreigners never get used to this. Often when thus cornered over the telephone, I have confessed "I am the Associated Press," but never without a feeling that the A. P. might some day find out.)

One party now has gained the upper hand. He pushes his advantage, and it can be a bitter experience, especially when the browbeater, after extracting from you intimate business and family details, snarls "wrong number" and hangs up with a bang as if it were all your fault.

Many Chinese speak foreign languages, and in none of them are they rude over the telephone. Only in Chinese do they act this way.

In Chinese life there is no precedent for this sort of churlishness except the attitude of servants and other unrefined elements toward each other. The indications are that it was their servants who got the Chinese to talking to each other over the phone as they would never dream of talking face to face.

The telephone came to China relatively late and to the wealthy few, dignified masters (secretly dubious about this foreign invention anyway) had their servants put through their calls and answer the phone.

Each servant was (1) scared of the phone, (2) at the same time puffed up at being assigned such important new business, and (3) determined to uphold his master's and his own prestige. So he would give no ground to a probable servant at the other end of the telephone line.

A master making his own call assumed he would be answered by a servant, and spoke accordingly. So rudeness became standard.

Anyway, you don't have to be polite in China to an unknown person who can't see you. The important thing is never to let him learn who you are first.

POWERFUL KILLER REMAINS AT LARGE

PASSAU, Germany, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A powerful killer who used 35 gallons of flaming gasoline in attempts to destroy all clues to his crime remained at large tonight, 12 days after he hacked three U. S. Military Government officers to death in an elegant Danube River villa.

Army criminal investigators who escorted this correspondent through the fire-blackened wreckage of the home once occupied by an S. S. Elite Guards colonel indicated that all the available evidence bore out these assumptions.

The slayer was a man. The triple crime was carefully premeditated. Someone familiar with the floor plan of the villa, its furnishings and the habits of its occupants was involved in the murderous plotting.

Two leads ended apparently in blind alleys today.

Investigators ascertained that a Polish prisoner who committed suicide in the Pfarrkirchen jail on Sunday had no burns on his body such as might have been caused by a gasoline explosion, and there was no positive information linking him with the Passau case.

The investigators asserted that prolonged questioning of the attractive daughter of an elderly German servant of the military government was "merely routine." She was known to have been on cordial terms with members of the Passau military government.

JAPS 'GO AMERICAN' WITH ZIEGFELD TOUCH IN 'TOKYO FOLLIES'

Camouflaged beyond recognition by Japanese billboards and military "off limits" signs, a Broadway-style musical extravaganza was discovered in Tokyo by Tom Shafer, NEA-Acme correspondent. Playing in a theater where, in wartime, the Japs manufactured the balloons which carried bombs to the U. S., the revue follows the American pattern of featuring singers backed up by a snappy chorus line. Traditional kimonos gave way to tights, blouses and evening gowns. Photo above shows Jap dancers in a "South American" number. At right, one of the "most gorgeous girls in Japan" smooths her legs before going on-stage.

KAISER

war, asked "who in the industry is smart enough to measure efficiency at two per cent?" He estimated the 3½-cent difference between the U. S. Steel offer and the president's proposal was two per cent.

"Can anyone hesitate to save this nation for 3½ cents? Kaiser asked after a White House conference with President Truman and President Philip Murray of the Steelworkers Union.

Kaiser employs between 3,000 and 4,000 workers at his Fontana plant. He also is dickering for the government-owned Geneva, Utah, plant which the U. S. has put up for bids.

Carrying out his announced plan to keep open any plant which signed a contract with an 18½-cent increase, Murray made his pact with Kaiser this morning and started negotiations, at the request of the companies he said, in two Reading, Pa., operations.

The two Reading companies were the Birdsboro Steel Company, employing about 1,100 men, and the American Chain and Cable Company, employing about 1,200.

C. I. O. District Director George Medrick said he offered to settle with them on President Truman's figure of 18½ cents, effective as of January 1.

The wage issue is the only one involved in the dispute. Other contract provisions carry over to the termination date, next October 15.

Murray was asked at the White House if he believed the contract with Kaiser represented a "break" that might lead to a general settlement with the steel makers.

He replied, "I hope so," and added the comment that Kaiser "as a great American has made a contribution to the nation."

Kaiser said he never had been consulted by U. S. Steel during the wage negotiations that preceded the strike call.

Elsewhere, workers already were staying away from the steel plants. Approximately 45,000 men were idle at scattered mills.

In Pittsburgh the big plant of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation was closed down. In Detroit three mills of the Great Lakes Steel Corporation, employing 7,118 workers, were idle.

President Truman gave no indication he would renew efforts to avert the paralyzing shutdown of the industry, set for 12:01 a. m. Monday. Government seizure of the steel mills was considered only a remote possibility, and was not discussed prior to the blow-up of wage talks between U. S. Steel and Murray.

The president did leave the door open, however, for U. S. Steel still to accept his proposal for settling the dispute. He had asked the company to reconsider its flat rejection, but well into today he had received no reply.

IRAN APPEALS

ernment to negotiate with the Soviet Union had "met with no success."

"Accordingly," the letter said, "the Iranian delegation to the General Assembly of the United Nations, on behalf of the Iranian government, have the honor to request to you, in accordance with the terms of Article 35 (1) of the Charter, to bring the matter to the attention of the Security Council so that the council may investigate the situation and recommend appropriate terms of settlement."

The letter said the delegation would assist the council by supplying a full statement of facts. It was signed by Seyed Hassan Taqizaden, Iran's ambassador to Britain and chief of the delegation.

Iran's broadside came in the wake of a demand by Syria and Lebanon that British and French troops evacuate their soil immediately as an essential to the restoration of the independence of the Levantine states.

The Security Council was scheduled to meet Monday or Tuesday after the assembly, cutting through normal procedures, sent along the major-power proposal for creation of an atomic energy commission. Today's assembly session cleared the UNO decks of oratory, so that commissions could get down to work next week on major problems.

Iran's grievance grew out of the proclamation by an insurgent group of an autonomous government of Azerbaijan in that province of northwest Iran. Earlier, Iranian government troops sent to quell the uprising there had been halted by Soviet troops occupying the area.

The Iranian question is a delicate one for the council. Should the council be compelled to make a decision which was critical of the Soviet Union, the unity among the Big Three nations—Russia, the United States and Britain—might be upset at the outset.

On the other hand, should the council rule against Iran, the faith of little nations in the organization might be shaken.

The council would have one other course of action—to arrive at no decision, at least for a long time. But this, it is said, would almost certainly damage its prestige.

Some delegates, in earlier discussions of a possible Iranian complaint, expressed opinion that Russia, armed with its veto power, should refrain on voting on any recommendation the council might make in the dispute. The United Nations charter says that a decision of the council requires seven votes, including all of the five major nations on anything but procedural matters, but some delegates have voiced the opinion that discussion of any subject which might lead to a disruption of peace could be considered procedural.

Russia herself has strongly opposed the lifting of the veto power from any decision of the Security Council.

business. From furniture, real estate, oil lands and various other interprises, he amassed a considerable fortune.

He was a strong supporter of Long. After the Kingfish became governor in 1928, he made Maestri Commissioner of Conservation. He remained the state's oil and gas boss until he entered the New Orleans city hall.

Taking office in 1936, he escaped an election in 1939 by a legislative act cancelling the polling. In 1942 he won a new four-year term by the largest majority ever given a New Orleans mayor.

Morrison is the scion of a family long prominent in the society of New Orleans and the plantations of Pointe Coupee parish, where he grew up. After taking a law degree from Louisiana State University, he started legal practice in New Orleans.

Running under the banner of "reform" Governor Sam Jones, Morrison was elected to the State House of Representatives in 1940 from the fashionable Garden District 12th ward. In the House he was an administration leader. Called into army service as a reserve major in 1942, he won an absentee re-election to the House in 1944.

Rounding out the list of candidates are Shirley G. Wimberly, one-time gubernatorial candidate; John F. Golden, Anthony J. Deckelmann, Warren Johnson and Mrs. Louis Patrick Dillion. Mrs. Dillion is the first woman to seek the office.

10 RUSSIANS

peared to "sense" they were headed for Russia, the army announcement said.

Led by Vlassov, a White Russian wanted by Moscow even before the war, the Cossack horsemen fought Red army men during the entire war on the Eastern front.

Soviet troops were sworn to hunt down every one of Vlassov's men, and in turn Vlassov's troops were reportedly vowed never to be taken alive by a Soviet soldier. It was conceded, however, that their punch was more in propaganda value to the Nazis than in their actual fighting.

The Russians charged that Vlassov's soldiers, when not fighting, masqueraded as Soviet troops and raped and plundered.

In the last days before the liberation of Prague by Red army troops, Vlassov's forces through a trick momentarily halted Czech patriots fighting against Germans in the city.

The Cossacks deceived Czech underground fighters into believing Red army forces had attacked when they were actually 100 miles away. The fighting stopped, but was resumed a short time later after the ruse was discovered. Vlassov's troops fled to the hills, where many were captured by the Russian. Others fled to the American lines.

Nothing authoritative has been learned of Vlassov's fate.

tical strike tonight to try to get it settled.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach invited heads of the union and General Electric and Westinghouse companies to meet him here at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

A Labor Department spokesman said telegrams went out tonight. A break had not yet appeared in the dispute which sent 175,000 CIO United Electrical Workers of the two firms on a walkout last Tuesday.

Replies had not yet been received. Text of the telegram was not made public.

In New York, however, Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric, said he would be "delighted to go" to Washington in accordance with Schwellenbach's telegram.

"This is the first tangible evidence of the government trying to find a basis for settling the strike," he said.

OFFERS TO SETTLE ELECTRICIANS' STRIKE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Frank Fitzsimmons, union leader of 17000 striking Western Electric workers in the metropolitan area, offered today to end the walkout for a 17 1/2 per cent wage increase, but the company termed the offer "not acceptable."

Fitzsimmons, president of the Western Electric Employes Association, Independent, telegraphed President Truman and the Western Electric Company that the union would settle "provided the company increases its present offer of 15 per cent to 17 1/2 per cent as was recommended in the findings of the fact-finding board in the recent UAW-GM dispute case."

In a telegram to Fitzsimmons tonight, F. J. Hammel, Labor Relations director of the big Kearny, N. J., plant of Western Electric, said:

"The offer made in your telegram of Jan. 19, 1946, is not acceptable to the company. The Kearney dispute should be settled on its own merits and not on the basis of recommendations in the GM-UAW dispute referred to in your telegram."

MANY VESSELS WILL RETURN TO NATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Nearly 900,000,000 tons of shipping—9,499 vessels—will be returned to 18 nations when the United Maritime Authority dissolves March 2, it was learned today.

The ships are of all types and sizes from slow-going tankers and small freight ships to huge luxury liners.

An official report will be made public next week in a complete post-war survey of world shipping. However, an unofficial breakdown of the UMA lists, obtained today, disclosed how much each member nation relinquished to common shipping control during the war.

Of the total tonnage—one of the most closely guarded secrets of the war—the United States led with some 50,798,000 tons. Britain came second with about 15,500,000 tons.

In number of ships, the United States lead contributions to the greatest shipping pool in history with 5,529 vessels. Next came Britain, 1,771; Norway, 465; Canada, 361; Holland, 272; Sweden, 252; and France 213.

The UMA directorate is scheduled to meet in London February 4 to discuss final plans for its own dissolution and take steps to avoid chaotic shipping competition when it is dissolved.

Shipping officials said that the UMA's immediate problem when the pool is broken up will be to guarantee shipping to United Nations relief organizations, principally UNRRA, and to maintain the flow of rehabilitation goods to war devastated countries.

These officials said the pool's break-up will precipitate a major shortage of tankers and refrigerated ships, types of vessels which only the United States, Britain and Norway have in excess of their own requirements.

First American cook book was published in Connecticut in 1796.

HOPES TO AVOID CEILING ON COTTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Anderson told a committee of southern congressmen today that he hopes a ceiling price will not be needed on raw cotton.

Rep. Whittington, Democrat, Mississippi, told newsmen after a two-hour conference between Anderson and the committee that "no formal conclusion was reached."

The 19-man group which Whittington heads agreed to continue Monday its study of OPA's announced intention to impose ceilings on cotton unless prices remain stabilized. Committee members said OPA officials will attend.

The group conferred yesterday with Price Administrator Chester Bowles, who was quoted by members as saying a 24.09-cent base price of 15-16ths-inch middling cotton is the lowest being considered by the agency.

Anderson took the same position, Whittington said.

"Both the secretary and Mr. Bowles state that the ceiling announced was a minimum, not a maximum, and that they hope it will not be necessary to have any ceilings at all," Whittington said.

Other members of the committee, which was chosen to act for cotton producing states at a mass meeting of 110 representatives yesterday, declined further comment on today's talk with Anderson.

Cotton belt congressmen have threatened to withdraw their support of continuation of OPA if the agency adopts ceilings.

COMMITTEES NAMED BY LABOR COUNCIL

Committees to serve the aims of the Monroe Central Trades and Labor Council for the next year were set up at a meeting of the council's newly elected officials here Friday night.

Standing committees reorganized included education, publicity, auditing and legislative.

The new council officers are C. C. Blanchard, president; P. L. Wallace, vice president; Leon Johnson, financial secretary; C. C. Copeland, recording secretary; and Paul Malikowski, sergeant-at-arms.

The council extends invitations to members of organized labor to attend these meetings at the Labor Temple at 7:30 p. m. every Friday night. Delegates to the council are urged to attend.

What MacArthur thought of this plea for mercy was not disclosed. To another request, of a different character, he gave an affirmative answer. He granted Emperor Hirohito permission to give away three of his palaces, one to Kanagawa prefecture, one to the city of Tokyo and one to the city of Kobe.

POLICE TRAINING STARTS LAST WEEK

The final week of the Police Training School being conducted here by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation under the auspices of the Monroe and West Monroe police departments will begin tomorrow in the Monroe city hall and end Friday. The school has been in progress since January 7.

With the exception of Judge Jesse Heard of the West Monroe city court who addressed the school Tuesday, J. T. Duke, F. B. I. agent, will be the lecturer at all classes this week and have charge of the week's activities.

Duke will speak on "Juvenile Control" at tomorrow's classes, and Judge Heard on Tuesday will address the officers on "Pertinent Articles from the Louisiana Criminal Code."

Subjects of Duke's lectures for the remainder of the week will be "Courtroom Demeanor" and "Unlawful Flight and Other Federal Laws," Wednesday; "Indoor Crime Scene Search," Thursday; and "Outdoor Crime Scene Search," Friday.

Classes are held twice daily, and afternoon sessions are duplicates of morning classes for the convenience of officers on duty in the morning.

SELF-GOVERNMENT AIM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The sole objective of the United States in Korea is to bring about self-government and independence at the earliest possible moment, a State Department spokesman said tonight. John Carter Vincent, director of the department's office of far eastern affairs, discussing the question on an NBC broadcast devoted to Korea, said that he believed the agreement reached at the Moscow conference of Big Three foreign ministers showed that Russia and Britain had the same desire.

FORM NETWORK ON ADVERTISING

19 Metropolitan Newspapers In East And Mid-West Organize

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Nineteen metropolitan newspapers in the east and mid-west have organized as members of the American Newspaper Advertising Network, Inc., in order to furnish "national newspaper advertising services at an economical cost on a regional or national basis," it was announced here today.

The election of Harold Sherwood, advertising manager of the New York Daily News, as president of the organization also was announced, following an organization meeting in Chicago earlier this week.

The 19 papers so far listed will be known as the central group. A similar New England group is in an advanced stage of organization, and probably will consist of eight papers. Organization meetings of a southeast group of around 12 papers will be held shortly, followed by meetings looking to the formation of a southwest group of eight papers.

A spokesman for A. N. A. N. said two other regional groups were contemplated and that representations would be made in the mountain area and the Pacific coast.

Under the plan an advertiser using the A. N. A. N. service would be required to buy space in at least 80 per cent of the cities represented in one of the six regional groups, using the member newspapers.

In the central group as now organized, the 19 newspapers represented are located in 16 cities. An advertiser thus would have to buy space in at least 13 of the cities. A. N. A. N. plans to enlist a number of supplementary papers, and the advertiser could use the same service for space purchases in as many of them as he wished.

The A. N. A. N. spokesman said the papers would give discounts for frequency ranging up to 10 per cent of the regular national rates. Advertisers would be required to take a minimum number of lines on at least a 13-week basis, with other contracts available up to 52 weeks.

Other officers of A. N. A. N. Inc., as elected this week, are Charles J. Feldmann of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, vice-president; Samuel H. Kauffman of the Washington Star, secretary; and Stuart M. Chambers of the St. Louis Post Dispatch, treasurer.

Other papers in the central group aside from the New York Daily News and those named above are the Baltimore Sun, Boston Globe, Boston Herald-Traveler, Chicago Tribune, Cleveland Plain Dealer, Columbus Dispatch, Indianapolis News, Louisville Courier-Journal, Milwaukee Journal, Minneapolis Star Journal and Tribune, New York Times, Omaha World-Herald, Philadelphia Bulletin, Philadelphia Inquirer, and Providence Journal and Bulletin.

For the first nine years of its existence, the U. S. Coast Guard was the only Navy the United States could boast.

Lt. Col. Granary Visits Monroe

Native Born Louisianian Returns From Paris, France On Terminal Leave

Lt. Col. Harry Granary, native born Louisianian who has lived abroad for more than half his life is back home on a short visit to relatives. He is on terminal leave and is now visiting his two sisters, Mrs. Harry Oliver and Mrs. Clarence Oakley of this city.

Col. Granary was born and reared in Baton Rouge where he was graduated from L. S. U. He left Baton Rouge after his graduation for Cuba where he was associated with the sugar industry. He remained there for 15 years with an occasional visit to Monroe where he visited his mother, the late Mrs. Belle Granary. He was later associated with the International General Electric Corp., in Europe, heading their appliance sales division for the entire continent.

With an engaging twinkle in his eyes, Col. Granary admits that he got out of the practice of "telling people things" since his tour of duty with the O. S. S., which is Office of Strategic Service. Illustrating, the colonel told of a meeting he had in Paris about a year ago with a friend of his who knew him only as "Owen." They had been to an army school together in Washington in 1942. At the meeting in Paris they greeted one another by saying:

"Hi Owen."

"Hi Hank."

"Come around to see me sometime," the colonel said.

"Swell," said Owen. "But who'll I ask for?"

In the OSS in Europe for 40 months and in the army since 1942, Col. Granary is now on terminal leave until Feb. 22.—He plans to stay in the Reserve Corps of the army.

When he returned to Paris after the invasion of the continent, he found many of his old acquaintances there. "The old social life was gone, of course," he stated. "However they hadn't suffered too much under German rule. The humiliation of finding that France wasn't invincible as they had felt she was was the greatest shock they had suffered."

Col. Granary had been a resident of Paris 10 years before the war, having gone there in 1930.

Continuing with his war experiences, he said:

"Generally speaking, life in Paris was very restricted. The public utilities were rationed and there was what amounted to an informal curfew after 10 o'clock at night. For at that hour the subways ceased operating and there was no way to get around after that except walking."

He is planning on returning to Paris in May to resume the position he held before the war.

"France," Col. Granary said, "needs everything, but she must forget her political differences, as Belgium has done, and work together."

An avid bridge, backgammon, and gin-rummy player he also reads and writes as a hobby. When asked by a friend what had happened to a book he had written about his travels in Central and South America, he replied, "Oh that! I threw it away years ago."

Smiling as he recalled an incident that happened during the buzz-bomb raids on London, where he was stationed prior to the invasion doing liaison work with the British and French secret services, he said: "I had a small and very attractive cottage in the outskirts of London, in Chelsea, and one night as a friend and I were enjoying a glass or two of beer, one bomb fell in the street just a block away. Everything in the place fell down, black out curtains, among other things. A huge fire was going in the street, for the bomb had broken a gas main, and everything was bright as day. In a few minutes though we had a call from a policeman who told us that we would have to pull our black out shades, or put out our lights. So having had the shades blown down by the bomb we had to put out our lights."

Among many accomplishments of Col. Granary, is that of speaking French, Spanish, Portuguese and Italian. He learned French at an early age as his mother's people were French and his Grandfather Blouin in his later years refused to speak any language other than French."

Miss Biedenharn Guest Soloist At Opera Club

Miss Emma Louise Biedenharn and Mrs. R. L. Pritchard were guest artists of the Opera club when they met in the home of Mrs. E. R. Whitaker with Mrs. Paul Newman, co-hostess.

The club president, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, introduced Miss Biedenharn who gave dramatic sketches of three operas and sang in beautiful voice an aria from each with Mrs. Pritchard playing the piano accompaniment. The arias were:

Voce di donna from "La Gioconda," by Ponchielli; Amour! viens aider, from "Sampson and Dalila," by Saint-Saens, and Weiche, Wotan, from "DAs Rheingold," by Wagner.

Mrs. R. O. Ware gave the history of the lives of great singers past and present. They were Frances Alda and Mary Garden and Lawrence Tibbett and Lily Pons.

Following the singing of "My Louisiana," in unison the hostesses served delicious refreshments to Mrs. P. A Colvin, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. A. R. Mrs. Tarver Gives Story Of Elijah At Opera Club

"Music is the language of the emotions, and that religious music is the most ennobling form of music."

Mrs. L. V. Tarver quoted these lines when she gave the story of Elijah at the recent meeting of the Opera club in the home of Mrs. V. S. Garnett with Mrs. J. C. Kramer, co-hostess.

The afternoon's program featured numbers from the Oratorio, "Elijah" by Mendelssohn. Mrs. R. W. Cretney, accompanied by Mrs. P. A. Poag, sang "O Rest in the Lord," and Mrs. A. M. Serex, playing her own accompaniment sang, "Hear Ye, Israel."

Mrs. Guy Durbin, accompanied by Mrs. Serex, sang "If With All Your Heart."

Mrs. Garnett reviewed the life of Frederick Jagel.

Mrs. Tarver telling the story of "Elijah" said:

"Elijah" is pre-eminently a Jewish oratorio and is probably the finest and assuredly the most popular work of its kind since Haydn's "CREATION," and it is said to rank second to the "MESS'AH."

Struck by the words in reading I Kings, XIX, II, "BEHOLD THE LORD PASSED BY" from this thrilling sentence Felix Mendelssohn drew up the story of what has been called the life of "the grandest and most romantic character that Israel ever produced." He wove into this masterpiece the effect of a vivid, spontaneous story, that remains today the most dramatic oratorio ever written. It is crowded with stirring incidents and music which claims even the wholly uncultivated ear. The musical character of "Elijah" is clearly drawn and the author has succeeded in making of him what he hoped to; "A man strong and zealous, full of bitterness and scorn, the antagonist of the world, yet, borne aloft on the wings of angels." And again he is described thusly: "He stood up like fire" and that "his words burnt like a lamp."

Elijah dominates the oratorio, which is in four parts, with eight scenes. Each scene lends itself to the imagination in such way that the listener walks within hearing distance and is in sight of each event, facinated, absorbed and finally emotionally overcome at the highly dramatic scene when the HOLY ONE—who was not in the wind, nor in the earthquake, nor in the fire, revealed Himself at length to Elijah . . . in . . . "the still small voice" . . . and whose words none shall never know. . . .

So intensely thrilling is this terrible event depicted—the combination of technical skill and depth of feeling by the master-hand—that at this point it is absolutely necessary the listener should return to the things of earth for a time, and hear the low, awed-struck voices of the sons of the prophets, who talked upon this dreadful and holy thing that had come to pass. Again the listener is spiritually lifted when appears the "Chariot of fire and the horses of fire" to take this man of God to receive his reward.

The concluding chorus, "And Then Shall Your Light Break Forth" finely sums up the lesson of the story of "Elijah"; the lesson of faith in the future, founded on experiences of the past; the lesson of faith in peace and joy, which the composer has impressed upon us throughout this dramatically beautiful oratorio.

Such is "Elijah", the humble man of God, who walked with Him and talked with Him, and the only other one of earth, who was privileged to see face to face, the LORD, GOD, JEHOVAH.

And having heard his story so dramatically given in music and song by the master, Mendelssohn, we too, feel that "BEHOLD THE LORD PASSED BY."

Club Women Meet In Scott Home

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale Addresses Club Women On Subject Of Great Importance

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, state president of Federated Clubs, and members ofThe Twentieth Century Book Club were guests of honor at the first meeting of the new year of The Welcome Branch Book Club. Mrs. T. H. Scott was hostess with Mrs. C. E. Koonce and Mrs. F. E. Black, co-hostesses.

"Political Evolution of Women," was the topic of the guest speaker, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale. She said: "Woman's emancipation has been one of the most fascinating chapters in human history. During the last 200 years a definite movement in the civilized world has been to give women just human rights.

To understand this, we must look back to the dawn of history. In nature, we know the female is the stronger, more courageous and more intelligent. In the savage people, the same dominance holds. In large sections of the globe today women are still dominant, but not in America.

Somewhere in the course of history, the principle of matriarchy changed to patriarchy—mother to father. It is believed that this came about when primitive people progressed from agriculture to herding. When man became the masters of the food supply, the change arose.

These old patriarch feared matters might reverse themselves and women would return to a superior position—so they enacted drastic and stern laws for the suppression of all women. In the predominating patriarchal countries of the world, Arabia, Japan, Latin European countries and India, women are virtually chattels.

The invention of the steam engine by James Watt, which was the beginning of the machine age set women free because it returned to her the ability to earn her own living.

The invention of the microscope, which proved that mother and father contributed equally to the child; the invention of the spinning jenny, which started the industrial revolution, also were important in the freeing of women. This evolution of women, especially in the last 100 years is an important development. The time has come to treat them simply as human beings. All welfare laws henceforth should apply equally to all workers.

In has only been in the past few years that legislation has been passed regarding the legal rights of women. For the first time in history, potential American women voters out-number the men.

In this connection, I would like to tell you about a few of the women prominent in national affairs. These women each have a real ingredient of success, an overpowering crusading interest in a single cause, and the ability to subjugate everything in life to one project, be it international peace, social welfare, a newspaper or pure ego. Anna Lord Strauss is an editor by profession, deeply religious, and powerful as the U. S. president of National League of Women Voters. Eleanor Roosevelt is the most influential woman of our time. As long as she lives she will speak more authoritatively than anyone else for the forgotten man and woman. For years, Mary Norton has been representative from New Jersey and has led congressional battles for the rights of working people. Because of her prodigious legislative record and her personal prestige, Edith Nourse Rogers is important. Agnes Meyer is lecturer, writer, part owner of a powerful newspaper, and she is an intellectual with the personal means to wage her crusades. Clare Booth Luce is intelligent, clever, glamorous and news-making—and she also is the wife of the publisher of three powerful magazines. Ellen S. Woodward, as one of the three members of the social security board, reaches into the lives of some 115 million Americans in administering provisions for old age insurance, benefits for the aged, the blind and for dependent children. Eleanor Patterson as owner-publisher of Washington's top daily, The Times Herald, wields tremendous power. Evalyn McLean with the tremendous wealth of her golding father and her husband's newspaper-owning family is now greatly interested in the wounded of this war. She is called "female Ernie Pyle." And the tenth, an audacious spokesman for uncommon abuses, is Lelia Pinchot. Her crusading zeal is completely inter-racial, international, inter-party."

During the business session, Mrs. H. V. Collins, president, presided. Reports were read and an appeal made for donation to the victory clothing project now being carried on. Members may bring clothing, bedding, and other articles to the next meeting.

Mrs. Tisdale presided at the silver service during the coffee hour. Members of the Mother Club present were: Mrs. Fred Coon, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, Mrs. Sam Collins, Mrs. Rodney Cline, Mrs. Shelby Meek, Mrs. Sam McReynolds, Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. Ray Junod, and Mrs. E. C. Gibson. guests: Mrs. G. F. Rutzler, Mrs. Mayo Neyland, Mrs. Ella Long, and Mrs. John Bushart. Club members present were: Mrs. H. V. Collins, Mrs. H. D. Cleaver, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. A. R. Doughty, Mrs. W. C. Faulk, Mrs. A. S. Gunter, Mrs. G. D. Holland, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Mrs. J. L. McCabe, Mrs. J. D. Petty, Mrs. George Phebus, Mrs. J. F. Prendergast, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Mrs. Eugene Scott, Mrs. W. B. Mrs. Reynolds Is Hostess To The D. A. R. Members

Members of the D. A. R. held an interesting meeting on January 12 in the home of Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, with Mrs. Leo Terzia, Mrs. E. N. Faulk and Mrs. L. C. McGuire, co-hostesses.

Camellias in varied hues were arranged with considerable artistry and placed at vantage points throughout the reception suite.

The principal feature of the program was a talk given by Capt. Bernard D. Reynolds Jr., commandant of cadets at Northeast Junior College, who was presented by Mrs. Faulk. He gave an interesting and informative sketch of the history of the army of the United States from the time of the Revolutionary War to the present conflict.

After a business session, members enjoyed an informal social hour. The refreshment table was centered with a decor of lovely rose camellias, on either side of which were lighted tapers. At one end of the table Mrs H. Austin Miller, D. A. R. regent, presided over the handsome silver tea service.

D. A. R. members present at this time deemed it a pleasure and a privilege to view Mrs. Reyonlds' valuable collection of beautiful, antique glass.

Members who were present in addition to the hostesses were: Mrs. T. O. Brown, Mrs. E. G. Calvert, Mrs. J. S. Drew, Mrs. C. E. Faulk, Mrs. Jack Hayes, Miss Beverly Russell, Mrs. J. C. Liner, Mrs. H. Austin Miller, Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mrs. W. H. McGee, Mrs. G. S. Stovall, Mrs. J. A. Rainbolt and Mrs. M. S. McGuire.

A candle-light ceremony at the Baptist Church at Marion, La., united in marriage Miss Mary Maroney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louie L. Maroney of Marion and Mr. Travis L. Washam, son of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Washam of Lillie, La. The Reverend J. P. Burgess, pastor of the Marion Baptist Church, officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated for the impressive double ring ceremony, which was witnessed by friends and relatives. The altar was banked with ferns artistically arranged against a background of southern smilax.

During the prenuptial concert rendered by Mrs. Frank H. Yelton of Farmerville, who featured "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life," Mrs. Fred Maroney, sister-in-law of the bride, lighted the white tapers placed in the windows and on the altar. The traditional wedding marches "Lohengrin" for the entrance of the bridal party and "Mendelssohn's Recessional" were played by Mrs. Yelton.

The bride wore a two-piece spring model of grey, with white applique and white accessories and a corsage of orchids. Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. J. L. Jones of Farmerville, who wore a jersey model of purple with white accessories and a corsage of white split carnations.

B. J. Green of Marion served the groom as best man.

Following a brief honeymoon, the popular young couple returned to Marion.

Mrs. Washam is a graduate of Marion High School and received her B. A. degree from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She is a member of the Linville High School faculty.

Mr. Washam is a graduate of Bernice High School. He has served five years in the Air Corps. He spent 31 months in the European Theater and participated in the African, Algerian and Tunisian campaigns. He is now employed by Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, with headquarters in Monroe.

In celebration of the birthdays of Sodalists during November, December and January, the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Matthew's school, gave a skating party at Gus Kalio's rink January 16. Soon everyone was skating round and round the rink, falling, coupling, skating alone and then again falling.

Dorothy Ann Kelly proved to be the champion skater, but she fell, too!

After gaily and heartily thanking Mr. Kalio, who was generous enough to provide the rink free of charge, the party dispersed.

At every party, the birthday committee has given all have had wonderfully enjoyable times. The next party, some time in May, is already being counted on for another delightful party.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schott and Miss Kate Cascio have returned from a visit with friends in Port Arthur, and Beaumont, Texas.

Confidentially

There has been great strides in music in Monroe during the past several years due to the activities of prominent musicians who have taken part in organizing music clubs for juveniles and encouraging better music.

One of the outstanding figures in music circles in this city is Mrs. Herbert H. Land. Working always behind the scenes, but ever a "power behind the throne" Mrs. Land has devoted much time to the five student groups sponsored by the Musical Coterie. She keeps in touch with and co-ordinates the work of the five organizations so that there is consistent progress and value for each member of the student groups, further guided by excellent counsellors.

Members of Junior federated music clubs of Monroe and vicinity are looking forward with keen anticipation to the coming of the state convention of music clubs, which will be held in Monroe, probably in April. Each member of the junior clubs is a student of some phase of music study, and each one is expected to have an active part in the genuine and far-reaching success of the convention.

There are no less than one hundred music students holding membership in one of the five clubs sponsored by the Musical Coterie, while there are at the same time several other junior clubs in Monroe, which achieve remarkable results through the programs they are following. The latter groups will also have part in the calendar of convention activities, and all together will help to establish a new and loftier standard for the music clubs from all sections of Louisiana when they assemble for their convention in Monroe.

A recent accident reminds us that the best laid plans sometime go astray. Mr. and Mrs. Lennox McLendon, honeymooning in South Louisiana met with what might have been a tragic accident as they were motoring through the Bayou Teche country. Their automobile, a new one and a wedding gift, crashed into a truck parked on the side of the road without lights. Fortunately only slight injuries were sustained but the shining new car was wrecked. Mr. McLendon was forced to leave his bride who journeyed on to Monroe to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet, while he hurried back to Chapel Hill, N. C., where he is completing his course of study at the university. Mrs. McLendon left last week to join her husband. She took with her many of her beautiful wedding gifts to be used in the apartment awaiting occupancy of the newlyweds.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wallace are leaving Wednesday, via the automobile route for a month's vacation in Mexico. They will spend some time in Mexico City, but expect to settle down in Cuernavaca where excellent golf links are at the disposal of visitors. Other places of interest will be visited before returning home.

Miss Mary Alyce Jackson, a member of Kappa Alpha Theta at Sophie Newcomb College, returned Thursday to resume her studies after having spent a very pleasant holiday season in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar N. Jackson.

Other guests in the Jackson home were their son, Pfc. Jack Jackson and his roommate, Ensign Robert (Bob) Brown, outstanding students of Tulane Medical School in New Orleans.

Ensign Brown of San Francisco formerly attended Stanford University and U. C. L. A., where he was a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon social fraternity. Pfc. Jockson received his Bachelar of Science degree from Yale University where he was a Beta Theta Pi. Both students are members of Phi Chi Medical fraternity and popular in the social circles of New Orleans. They returned to the city in the early part of the new year to attend the numerous functions honoring the season's debutantes

Miss Lorena Hamm, student at Louisiana Tech and Miss Elsie Coon, student at Louisiana college, have returned to their studies following a holiday visit with their parents in this city. One of the compliments bestowed upon them was the supper party in the country home of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Wall. The guests in addition to Miss Hamm and Miss Coon were Frances Hamilton, Mary Lee Jones, Thomas Mitchell, Paul Brooks, John Rogers, Billy McClendon, Courtney Childers, George Mallat, Billie Hamilton, Paul Daney.

Monroe Literary Club Meets With Mrs. B. S. Parnell

Mrs. B. S. Parnell and Mrs. J. E. Shannon were hostesses to the Monroe Literary club when they met for their regular semi-monthly meeting.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. S. E. Morris, vice-president, presided. After routine business "The Land and People of Czechoslovakia" was reviewed by Mrs. Sidney Karr. She said in part:

"Czechoslovakia is scarcely larger than either the states of Florida or New York, but its population in 1935 numbered over fifteen million, and is made up of Czechs, Slovaks and Carpatho Russians, also Germans, Poles, and Hungarians.

"The Czechoslovaks are an artistic people, for whom music and the theater have been, for generations the chief avenues of expression and a means of popular education. They are highly industrialized, mining, steel, textiles, and chemicals formed the chief products. Bohemian glass and porcelain constituted other important industries. They are a peace-loving people and want only to continue their former democratic traditions, and to perfect a state in which a man can 'speak without fear, and live without want.' Bismarck, after his victory over Austria in 1866, said, 'Whoever is master of Bohemia is master of Europe. Europe must therefore never allow any except the Czechs to rule it, since that nation does not lust for domination. The boundaries of Bohemia are the safe guard of European security, and he who moves them will plunge Europe into misery.'"

A report of the party for the Crippled Children sponsored by the Monroe Literary club was given at this time. Gifts were presented to each child by Mrs. P. E. Massey, Mrs. Julius Chandler and Mrs. Sydney Karr on behalf of the club. Refreshments furnished by club members, were served the children and their mothers.

There will be presented to the police jury at their regular meeting to be held on Wednesday, January 9, 1946, at the court house in Vidalia, La., an ordinance to provide for the vaccination of all dogs in the Fifth ward of Concordia parish, to prevent the spread of rabies, to provide for the killing of all dogs in said ward not vaccinated in accordance with the provisions of said ordnance, and fixing penalties for the violation of the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke Godbold visited his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Godbold in New Orleans during the holidays.

S/Sgt. and Mrs. Bell Sharp from Denver, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. James Watson of San Diego, Calif., visited their aunt, Mrs. H. W. Haley during the holidays.

Cpl. Howard E. Bennett, an aircraft mechanic who has been stationed at Okinawa, left that island December 12 for San Francisco and release from the army. His brother, Pvt. Gerald H. Bennett, has also served in the Pacific theater for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett have not heard from Gerald for several weeks, and they are hopeful that he, too, is en route home.

Miss Josephine Kelly, who is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Lee, is being feted at a round of informal neighborhood entertainments. During the past week end Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jacobs were hosts at a dinner party in her honor.

The local Farm Security Administration office has been notified that funds are available now for rural rehabilitation loans in Concordia parish.

The loans, which bear five per cent interest, are authorized for the purchase of livestock, major farm and home equipment, and to pay the usual farm and home operating expenses for the 1946 crop year.

That part of the loans made for feed, seed, fertilizer, and other annual expenses commonly called a "furnish loan" must be paid back in one year. The amount borrowed for livestock and major items of farm and home equipment is repayable in annual installments over a period of time not to exceed five years.

Three well known public spirited farmers of Concordia parish, Mr. Cyrus B. Burley, Mr. Bert Barnes, and Mr. Albert Cowan have been appointed by the secretary of agriculture to review applications filed for FSA loans and determine whether or not the applicants meet eligibility requirements. The committee meets regularly to consider applications.

Persons interested in FSA loans may obtain application forms from the Farm Security Administration office located in the Reeves building above the Ferriday drug store in Ferriday.

Current Literature Club Meets With Mrs. Wade Cotton

Mrs. Wade Cotton entertained members of the Current Literature club, Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. W. O. Webb presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. Leon Dennis. Mrs. Jack Worley, Mrs. Jerry Whittledge and Mrs. Gene Denmary were welcomed into the club as new members.

Mrs. R. F. Seiler, the program chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Clay Albright, who reviewed "The Snow Goose" by Paul Gallico. Mrs. Albright said in part: "The setting is one of the last of the wild places of England, the Great Marsh, which lies on the Essex coast between the village of Chalmbury and the ancient Saxon oyster-fishing hamlet of Wickeldroth. There, it is desolate, utterly lonely, and made lonelier by the calls and cries of the wild fowl that make their homes there. At low water the blackened, ruptured stones of the ruins of an abandoned lighthouse can be seen. For many years this spot has been deserted by man, but lately it serves again as a human habitation. In it there lives a lonely man. His body is warped, but his heart is filled with love for wild and hunted things. He is ugly to look upon but he creates great beauty, he is an artist. It is about him and a child who came to know him and see behind the grotesque form that housed him to what lay within, that this story is told.

"It is not a story that falls easily and smoothly into sequence. It has been gathered from many sources and from many people. Some of it comes in the form of fragments from men who looked upon strange and violent scenes and the great white bird with the black-tipped pinions that saw it all from the beginning to the end and returned to the dark, frozen silence of the northland whence it came."

After the program delicious refreshments were served to the following guests and members: Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Gene Denmary, Mrs. Dan Dennett, Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich, Mrs. Henry Menuet, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. J. W. Reeves, Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. Earl Stovall, Mrs. W. O. Webb, Mrs. Jerry Whittledge, Mrs. William Whitfield, Mrs. Jack Worley, Mrs. Jack Wyatt and the hostess, Mrs. Wade Cotton.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

Cpl. and Mrs. Granville V. Prewett, Jr., whose marriage was solemnized on December 6, in Beaufort, S. C. Mrs. Prewett is the former Jean Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, of Beaufort, S. C., and Corporal Prewett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Prewett, of Monroe.

St. Joseph

Mrs. Nick Bruno was hostess at a Christmas dinner party given at the community house in honor of her son, Mr. Nick Bruno, Jr. The guests assembled in the lounge, which was attractively decorated in the Christmas colors of red and green. Garlands of ivy were draped over the door ways and flower bowls of nandina were placed on the console and coffee tables. Sprays of ferns decorated each window sill and in the center were placed red Christmas candles. On entering, Kay Lynch and Patsy Roberson presented each girl with a lovely corsage of red and white carnations and each boy received a red carnation as a bouttoniere. At seven o'clock, the guests were ushered into the auditorium where dinner was served. The table was very pretty with quaint Christmas candles placed on each side and a center decor of poinsettias with white candles in silver candlesticks on each side and a garland of ivy down the entire table center. Covers were laid for 24 guests. A delicious three-course dinner was served. Entrance prizes were given to the guests drawing the lucky number. These were Miss Gloria Bond Teral and Mr. Louis Smith. Highlights of the entertainment were a quiz contest, the winners receiving prizes and a duet by Kay Lynch and Patsy Roberson, accompanied by Mr. John Schuchs, Jr. Appropriate gifts were given to Kay and Patsy after the duet. An informal dance concluded the evening. Besides the dinner guests there were some additional guests. The gathering included the high school and college set.

Rev. J. Dean Maurer of Tallulah, La., was a dinner guest of Mrs. Docia T. Curry and Miss Marion Curry, recently.

Miss Marion Curry entertained two tables of bridge at her home in the afternoon. The games resulted in Mrs. Fred Skinner winning the highest score prize, Mrs. Thompson Clark the consolation prize and Mrs. Dan S. Farrar the third prize. After the games, the guests were ushered into the dining room and a plate luncheon was served. The table was centered with evergreens and ferns on which were placed sprays of nandina and red japonicas. On each side stood silver candlesticks holding rose colored candles. There were nine invited guests.

Mrs. Clarence Johnston entertained at bridge with a few additional guests for tea, honoring Mrs. Eugene Stevens, who with her daughter, Jean, are guests of her mother, Mrs. Samuel Yourtee. The card tables were placed in the living room of Mrs. Johnston's home, which was decorated for the occasion with quantities of holly and nandina. Vases holding sprays of ivy stood on each end of the piano. The games resulted in Mrs. Philip Watson winning the prize for highest score and Mrs. Johnston's mother, Mrs. E. L. Kelly of Baton Rouge, winning the second prize. The guest of honor, Mrs. Eugene Stevens, was given a pretty prize. A delicious chicken salad course, tea and confections was served at the tables after the games.

Mr. E. B. Freeman of New Orleans was a business visitor to St. Joseph, recently.

Mrs. Samuel Yourtee, Mrs. V. C. Rives and others in the party were visitors to Vicksburg, Miss., for the day.

Mrs. H. C. Davison was hostess at a birthday party given in honor of her daughter, Bobbie Jean, whose 13th birthday it was. The party took place at the community house and was a movie star party, all the decorations, games and contests carrying out the movie theme. Each guest represented a well-known movie star and pictures of the stars decorated the various rooms. George Burleson, Jr., and Philip Watson, Jr., won prizes in the contest. At 9:30 a delicious buffet supper of sandwiches, punch and cake was served in the auditorium. There were 26 invited guests, which included girls and boys of the teen age. Jean Stevens was an out of town guest.

Rev. Shirley Briggs and Mrs. Briggs entertained at a venison parbecue given at the recreation room of the St. Joseph Baptist church. The guests were all the officers and officials of the church. During the entertainment Rev. and Mrs. Briggs were the recipients of a handsome eider down quilt, the gift of the officers and officials. There were 50 guests altogether.

Miss Mary Putzel Weds Capt. Goldman

Marriage Of Interest To Friends Here Takes Place In North Carolina

Captain Harold Truman Goldman, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Goldman of Waterproof, La., has a wide circle of friends in this city who will read with interest the following account of his marriage in Salisbury, N. C., January 5.

Social interest centers in the marriage of Miss Mary Putzel and Harry Truman Goldman, Jr., captain in the United States army, which was solemnized with a ceremony of dignified simplicity at half after five o'clock, at the First Presbyterian church, of which the bride has been a member since her childhood.

The Rev. William Moultrie Moore, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church administered the vows.

The church decorations consisted of groupings of palms as a background for the church flags and twin bouquets of white flowers. During the preliminary music the ushers, Tom Stanback, Jr., and Lieutenant Carl Horn, Jr., lighted the candles in floor candelabra.

Mrs. Robert Culton, organist, played Schubert's "Serenade," Andante Cantabile from Tchaikowsky's fifth symphony, and "Liebestraum" during the ceremony. The wedding party entered to the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," and left to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march from "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Mrs. Alvin Robert Keppel sang "I Love Thee," by Grieg.

Ramsay Hines, USNR, of Charlotte, served as best man for Capt. Goldman.

Rosamond Putzel was her sister's maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a white net over taffeta dress made with long sleeves and narrow ruffles on the skirt. She held an arm bouquet of crimson roses and had rosebuds in her hair.

Escorted by her father, the bride was radiant in a gown of white satin made on slender lines with long sleeves, a moulded bodice and long trained skirt. Over this fell a voluminous veil of tulle worn with Juliet cap of seed pearls. As marker for her white prayer book the bride held orchids tied with white Roman hyacinths showered with ribbons. For talisman she wore the gold pendant and chain her father gave her mother at their wedding.

Mrs. Putzel, mother of the bride, was handsomely attired in black crepe and misty pink hat with which she wore blue-purple orchids. Mrs. Goldman, mother of Captain Goldman, was attired in brown and also wore purple orchids.

After the ceremony the bridal party and family went to the Putzel home on West Bank street for dinner served buffet style, and the cutting of the bride's cake, an immense white confection made in tiers and ornamented with lovebirds and flowers. Small tables were placed in dining and living rooms in a setting enhanced by the use of white bouquets of carnations, roses, narcissi and snapdragons.

During the evening Captain and Mrs. Goldman left for a trip to New Orleans after which they will go to Waterproof, La., to make their home. For travel the bride changed to a tea olive green dressmaker suit and brown accessories, and added her orchids and white hyacinths.

Mrs. Goldman is a graduate of Boyden High School and attended Catawba College. She is the older daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lewis Putzel.

Captain Goldman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Goldman, of Waterproof, La., returned to the United States from Europe in December and was released from the army at Fort Meade at Christmas. Dayton Stylist Slips At Richmond But Retains Two-Stroke Lead

RICHMOND, Calif., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Little Toney Penna, the Dayton, Ohio, stylist, lost a couple of strokes to the field today but he clung to a two-stroke lead in the Richmond open golf tournament, at the end of the third round of the 72-hole event, carrying $10,000 in victory bonds as the prizes.

He tallied a third round 73, far short of his sensational sub-par-65 yesterday but his 207 total still kept him ahead of his nearest rival, Jimmy Hines, Chicago. Hines, playing the most consistent golf of all, racked up a par 71, to set his total at 209.

Big Jim Ferrier, Chicago, shooting the first round of the day with a four-under par 67, moved up in the parade to tie Mark Fry, Oakland, for third position at 211. Fry posted a 70 for his latest effort.

Grouped at 212 as the crowd turned into the stretch run tomorrow were Charles Stolhand, Ponca City, Okla., leading the amateurs; Ed Oliver, Taunton, Mass.; E. J. Harrison, Little Rock, Ark., and Denny Shute, Akron, Ohio.

Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., one of the pre-tournament favorites, was in a 218-stroke tie with Ellsworth Vines, Chicago. Others of the "big name" crowd trailed in higher scoring brackets. Among them were Jim Demaret, Houston; Bob Hamilton, Chicago; and Sam Byrd, Detroit. Deadlocked at 215; Harold McSpaden, Sanford, Me., in a four-way tie at 217, and Vic Ghezzi, Knoxville, Tenn., tied with an amateur at 219.

Out of the running for any of the $20 prizes, unless those ahead blow up in the final round, were the defending tournament champion, Sam Snead, Hot Springs, Va., ex-U. S. Open Champion Lawson Little, Monterey, Calif., and Veteran John Revolta, Evanston, Ill.

Many top flighters withdrew from competition after today's round, including Jimmy Thompson, Chicopee Mass., Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., and Ed Furgol, Detroit.

The par 36-35—71 Richmond course played tougher than in the preceding two rounds, caused by softening fairways. Rain pelted the layout while the stragglers were still hitting their shots.

Only three players, Ferrier 67, Fry and Hogan, each 70, broke par. Five others equalled it.

DEMONS TROUNCE TECH FIVE, 54-19

NATCHITOCHES, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Demons of Northwestern State College bettered the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs, 54 to 19, in their Louisiana intercollegiate conference basketball opener here tonight.

Richie, forward of Northwestern, was high point man with 16, Botzon was next with 11, and Latham paced the losers with seven points.

This gives the Demons a clean slate in the L. I. C. and S. I. A. A. play. Northwestern won nine games in 12 starts.

Feature of the tilt was the third quarter in which Louisiana Tech failed to score.

HAMMOND NEW MEMBER OF EVANGELINE LEAGUE

HAMMOND, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Hammond has joined the Evangeline Baseball League and will build a new municipal ball park at which night baseball will be played.

Mayor Jimmie Stire said about 65 local business men attended a meeting last night with League President Walter Morris of Dallas and John Paul Jones, president of the Baton Rouge ball club.

Stire said the group would meet again Monday night to elect a club president and board of directors, and complete details of organization.

The new club replaces Lake Charles which was unable to rejoin the league upon its reorganization this year because of lack of ball park facilities.

A meeting in Thibodaux to discuss resumption of Evangeline competition there is scheduled for tomorrow, and a reorganization meeting for the league is planned Tuesday in Opelousas.

Other teams signed up for the league are: Baton Rouge, Alexandria, Natchez, Opelousas, New Iberia, and Abbeville.

LOVELOCK AND HUMBERTO IN RETURN MAT BOUT THURSDAY

Participants In Bloody Battle Last Week Booked Again At Arena

Al Lovelock, the Philadelphia strongboy who was a blood-splattered victim of Juan Humberto, Dallas, Tex., in a riotious wrestling show here last Thursday night, notified Promoter Gus Kallio yesterday evening that he's ready for a return match with the rowdy Spanish-Mexican at the earliest possible date.

"I want that return shot at him while I'm still mad," Lovelock declared, and Promoter Kalio immediately announced the rebilling of Humberto and Lovelock for the main event at his Walnut street arena next Thursday night.

The rematch was ordered by Commissioner Dave Silverstein who gave the wrestlers 30 days in which to get together. Commissioner Silverstein said at the time he ordered the rematch that he didn't feel Lovelock would be able to wrestle in another week or two because of a scalp wound he suffered.

However, Lovelock informed Kallio yesterday that he was "plenty ready" and that the return match couldn't be arranged any too soon to suit him.

The fireworks started [illegible] Thursday when Humberto caught Lovelock with a punch on the [illegible] temple that ripped a gash on the side of the Pennsylvanian's head. Blood began to flow freely from the wound, and Lovelock, apparently stunned for a few seconds at the sight of blood on his hands after he had wiped at the wound, suddenly went berserk and battered Humberto all over the ring with his fists.

Referee Allen Corbin sought to check Lovelock in his use of fists and when he failed to succeed the referee disqualified Lovelock and awarded Humberto the fall, second of the match. Since Humberto had already won the first heat the second fall win gave him the match.

Further infuriated by the referee's action, Lovelock began slugging the referee and when Corbin fell to the mat the rampaging wrestler kicked and stomped him until he rolled off the mat into the arms of ringside customers. Further fist fights broke out among the fans with a marine and a pair of civilians supplying most of the action.

A physician at the ring advised Lovelock to have "a few stitches" taken in the wound, but the wrestler refused, submitting only to having the skin pulled together and taped down.

The match was the bloodiest ever to take place here in the near seven years that Kallio has been promoting. Both wrestlers and the referee were well splattered with blood and even several of the ringside customers had their baptism of gore.

The purses of both Lovelock and Humberto were held up by orders of the commissioner following the fracas, and now the battlers have agreed, Kallio said, to battle it out next Thursday on a winner-take-all basis. Thus the winner this week gets both purses from last Thursday as well as both for the coming bout.

Lovelock has also demanded as a condition of the return match that the referee be "anybody but Corbin," Kallio said, although Humberto was said to have agreed "Corbin is all right."

Humberto's only request was that police protection, especially in his corner of the ring, be furnished.

The semi-final event on the card will bring together Don Lee, 240-pounder of Atlanta, Ga., who will oppose Jack Kennedy, Dallas, Tex. Lee will be making his first appearance in the local arena. Kennedy last Thursday beat Joe Kujod, Toledo, Ohio, in the semi-final here.

FEATHERWEIGHT TITLE BOUT SLATED AT N. O.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A championship featherweight boxing bout is in prospect for New Orleans.

Lew Raymond, local matchmaker, announced today that Sal Bartolo, the National Boxing Association 126-pound champion, has agreed to stake his title against the winner of next Friday's bout, scheduled for ten rounds here, between Phil Terranova of New York, former NBA feather champ, and Steve Curley, the Toronto, Canada, Irishman.

The championship bout, Raymond said, would be at 15-rounds, would be staged at New Orleans' huge municipal auditorium or at Pelican Stadium, home of the New Orleans Southern Association Baseball club and would follow on the heels of the Mardi Gras celebration here, some time in April.

Terranova lost his NBA featherweight title to Bartolo about a year ago.

Curley, a graduate of the amateur ranks, has been undefeated in 22 fights as a professional.

GAMBLING HITS TEXAS FOOTBALL

Intercollegiate League Raps Betting On High School Grid Games

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Texas schoolboy football, which last season experienced its greatest attendance in history—one game setting a record for the South—has found prosperity also breeds trouble.

The Texas Interscholastic League through its official publication termed gambling at high school football games "an even worse curse than drinking intoxicants" and said gambling was becoming organized on the "horse-racing plan."

Referring to the Brooklyn incident involving players on college basketball teams, the league paper said "many gamblers are not content to take a chance but insist on having a sure thing. Then money is put up to hire players to throw the game or hold the score down to make certain gamblers safe." The editorial added that just one scandal of this kind would "blow up high school football in Texas."

R. J. Kidd, athletic director of the far-flung interscholastic league which sponsors football for around 800 high schools in which more than 20,000 boys participate a year, said "it is a condition that a league rule could not remedy but must be handled by each community. If local groups, however, began to interfere with management and control of school teams then in my opinion the league could suspend the school from league competition."

Flagrant placing of bets with professional gamblers was reported from many areas last season.

The growth of schoolboy football in Texas was demonstrated last month when state play-off games jammed 20,000 into stadiums and more than 46,000 saw the state final at Dallas. This was the largest crowd ever to witness a schoolboy game in the south.

CYCLONES TRIM INDIANS, 41-28

Selman Quint Continues Winning Ways With Pyle Leading Scorers

The Selman Field Cyclones, still going strong in spite of discharges and army transfers, hung the scalp of the Northeast Junior College Indians up among their season's victims last night by defeating the Redmen, 41 to 28, at the army post gymnasium here.

The contest was hard fought all the way, but the Cyclones superiority in height also made them the superior ball club as they came through with their tenth triumph of the season. A return game between the two quintets will be played Wednesday night at the N. J. C. gymnasium, beginning at 7 o'clock.

Glenn Pyle, sharpshooting Cyclone forward, was the night's leading scorer, hooping seven field baskets and four free throws for 18 points, and some of his running shots were little short of spectacular.

Walter Johnson, the Indians' basket marksman, was able to get only seven points last night on two field goals and a trio of foul shots. The scampering little Tribesman was held in check by the able guarding of George Hamric who struck to the Redskin like a leach all night and Johnson was never able to shake his guard loose.

The Tribe was crippled at the beginning of the second half when starters Glenn Gossett and Meade Evans both fouled out.

CONNER PLEASED WITH GRID MEET

S. E. C. Head Says Convention Was Triumph For Athletic Recruiting

ATLANTA, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Mike Conner, commissioner of the muchly maligned Southeastern Conference, returned from the N. C. A. A. convention in St. Louis as a contented individual in most respects.

Conner says, for one thing, he is convinced the tenor of the convention constituted a triumph for his league and its program of athletic recruiting. For another, that other collegiate athletic groups are leaning more and more toward the SEC's policy of open scholarships.

The Southeastern delegates, he says, headed for the session expecting to be called on to defend their policies, but that "nothing that was said in criticism of athletic recruiting practices could be specifically applied to our conference."

Speakers from several other conferences "took stands," he says, "strongly suggestive of our program, and I believe you will see other conferences gradually revising their regulations to match or resemble ours.

"Our college presidents recognized six or eight years ago that the best solution to the subsidy problem was to eliminate all assistance to athletes which did not come from the college or from persons on whom the athlete is normally dependent for support. That is the only type that can be enforced."

Regarding the SEC's strict rule against transfers, Conner says the only avenue open to the league "would seem to be a reciprocal agreement with neighboring conferences that we will retain our strict non-transfer rule provided they exclude transfer from the SEC.

"If such an agreement is not reached, the SEC may fall in line with the rest of the country and let the rovers roam southward as well as northward and westward," he concluded.

REPATRIATION OF POLES UP TO 10,000 PER DAY

WARSAW, Poland—(AP)—The repatriation of an estimated four million Poles from western and eastern Europe is being stepped up to more than 10,000 per day.

Wladyslaw Wolski, vice minister of public administration, reported 4,500 Poles are entering Poland at Szczecin (Stettin) from Germany daily. Six thousand Poles are passing into their homeland from American zones of occupation. Repatriations also are being speeded from Soviet Russia.

Return of Poles to their homeland originally started on the basis of 3,000 daily. More than 200,000 have entered southern Poland in the last three months.

TEXAS LEAGUE TO STAGE PLAYOFFS

Loop Directors Make Plans For Resuming Play This Spring

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—It will be under a new name but the Texas League will hold a Shaughnessy playoff as usual when it reactivates its baseball campaign this year after being idle for three seasons.

Abandonment of the Shaughnessy play-off was voted down today as the club owners met and drafted a 154-game schedule covering 146 days opening April 16.

Houston and Dallas offered a resolution to change the plan for determining a champion, asking that the league declare the club winning the highest percentage over the entire season be awarded the pennant but in the vote only Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth were for it, thus the Shaughnessy—to be known in the future as the Texas League playoff—will be continued. It first was adopted in 1933 and was in vogue in 1942 when the league suspended play.

Under the present plan the first place team over the regular season gets $1,200, second place, $800 and third $500 but a committee was named to consider some other system of awarding the teams finishing highest in the percentage.

There was discussion of a plan of allowing the full-season leader to represent the league in the Dixie series against the Southern Association champion but with a play-off between the top four clubs for the Texas League pennant. Also projected was a plan of awarding the president's cup to the leader or some sort of trophy that would better satisfy the fans.

Reasons for abandonment of the term "Shaughnessy" were that this really originated in ice hockey, that it was difficult for the fans to understand that a term more applicable to the Texas League should be used.

It was voted that there could be a maximum of two ladies' days weekly or that there could be one ladies' day and one servicemen's day, with a special rate for enlisted personnel.

The rate of pay for official scorers was raised from $5.00 to $7.50 per game.

There will be no all-star game this year. This question was not even put to a vote.

Optimism over the coming season was unbounded. Attendance of at least 80,000 was generally forecast and Dallas President George Schepps predicted the million mark would be reached. Only once in history has there been such an attendance. That was in 1926. Bonneau Peters, Shreveport president, in forecasting unprecedented interest said he felt the league had been wise in suspending baseball operations during the war. "This was a very sick league at the time," he said. "The territory needed a rest."

Peters also took the view that all clubs should either be independent or owned by major league clubs. "That's the only way for the clubs to have an even break in playing material," he stated.

At this time three clubs are major-league owned—Fort Worth by Brooklyn, Houston by the St. Louis Cardinals and San Antonio by the St. Louis Browns. All other clubs except Beaumont have working agreements with big league clubs and Beaumont, recently bought by Guy Airey, is expected to announce a big league tie-up next week.

League club owners tomorrow will greet baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler who comes here to speak at a Sports Achievement Banquet Monday night.

Opening games April 16 and 17 will have Dallas at Forth Worth, Tulsa at Oklahoma City, Shreveport at Beaumont and San Antonio at Houston with the stands reversed April 18, 19 and 20. The official schedule will be released March 3.

GALLA DAMION WINS SAN FELIPE STAKES

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 19.—(AP)—C. J. Sebastian's Tremendous, big brown colt, Galla Damion, scored a solid three lengths victory over a classy field of three year old colts today in the $25,000 added, six furlong San Felipe Stakes at Santa Anita Park. The 4-5 favorite, Galla Damion zipped off a time of 1:10 1-5, two-fifths of a second off the track record.

Ridden by Jockey Ralph Neves, the strapping grandson of Sir Gallahad III, was held back for the first four furlongs, but as the seven horse field pounded around the far turn, the big brown ate up the yards on the outside and came romping into the stretch in front.

After that it was a breeze.

Galla Damion paid $3.80, $2.60 and $2.40, while the Foxcatcher Farms Hampden, ridden by Johnny Longden, placed to pay $3.00 and $2.90 after setting most of the early pace. Darby D-Day, owned by C. H. Jones and Sons, finished third and returned $4.80.

Air Rate, undefeated in seven starts as a two-year-old last year ran fifth after staying with the leaders until the stretch run. The biggest money winner in the field, he carried 126 pounds while Galla Damion and the others packed 116.

It was the third straight spectacular sprint win for Galla Damion, who definitely established himself as the horse to watch in the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby Feb. 23. The bounding, ground-devouring colt also has been nominated for the famed Santa Anita Handicap.

PELICANS START SPRING TRAINING ON MARCH 6

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The New Orleans Pelicans open spring training here March 6, with pitchers, catchers and returning servicemen scheduled to report to Manager Peacock at Pelican Stadium.

The rest of the club reports here March 11, Pelican Business Manager Charlie Hurth announced.

Hurth said the Pels would meet the Birmingham Barons here March 17 in the first exhibition game of the spring training. Other exhibitions will be played against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, the Minneapolis club with which New Orleans' Zeke Bonura debuts this season as a manager, the Columbus, O., nine of the American Association and Rochester's International League club.

BIG TURNOUT OF PLAYERS IS SEEN

Evans Says Managers To Have Biggest Headache In Spring Training

MEMPHIS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Billy Evans, president of the Southern Association, prescribed an aspirin diet today for baseball managers who he said in a few weeks would be greeted by "the greatest spring turnout of players in the history of the game."

Talent thumpers, he said, will earn their pay as never before.

"The training camps, majors and minors, will be flooded with candidates," Evans asserted. "Many leagues are expecting twice as many as in normal times.

"Such large squads are unwieldly and tax the judgment of the men who must pick the teams.

"That means quick decisions, many mistakes and many headaches."

The Southern executive said 1946 spring training would raise conditions such as baseball has never seen in the past and may never see again.

During the war, baseball became a global pasttime, played from Guadacanal to the Aleutians," he declared.

"Look what you have—hundreds of youngsters who never dreamed of playing ball now envisioning themselves as another Cobb or Ruth.

"They'll be out this year to take their swing at the sport.

"So we have most of the old players coming back, the youngsters and four-F's who held forth during the war and these service-made athletes, all trying to make the grade."

Evans said the new and revived minor leagues would absorb some of the excess talent but a big portion o fthis year's record candidate lists necessarily would have to be left on the sidelines.

"We have thirty-odd minor leagues now," he asserted. "In a few years I am convinced we will have fifty or more. Nevertheless, a lot of fellows will learn this spring that they had better go back on the farm."

STIRNWEISS IS VOTED SID MERCER MEMORIAL

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—George Stirnweiss, New York Yankee second baseman who led the American League both in batting and in stolen bases the past season, has been voted the Sid Mercer Memorial award as player of the year by the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Association.

Stirnweiss, son of a New York City policeman, hit .309 and stole 35 bases while playing in every Yankee game for the second straight year. Before entering professional baseball he gained national recognition as a halfback at North Carolina University. He will be given the player of the year award at the chapter's annual dinner and show here Feb. 3.

Other players to have received the award since it was inaugurated in 1931 were Dixie Walker, Bill Dickey, Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio, Bob Feller, Bucky Walters, Jimmy Foxx, Tony Lazzeri, Hank Greenberg, Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell, Herb Pennock, Lou Gehrig and Bill Terry.

CLAUDE S. BOTTS IN CUSTODY HERE

Claude S. Botts, 41, Houston, Tex., facing a 15-months-old charge of automobile theft, was taken into custody this week by Sheriff Milton Coverdale and Deputy Clyde Mitchell at New Iberia and was being held in the Ouachita parish jail here last night in default of a $1,500 bond.

The warrant for Botts' arrest was sworn out here October 17, 1944, by M. M. McMillan, operator of Dudley Motor Company.

Sheriff Coverdale declared had sent repeated requests to Houston authorities asking the arrest of Botts but that for some reason the arrest was never affected. A few days ago, however, Botts was arrested at New Iberia on a charge of passing worthless checks, and local authorities went to New Iberia Friday to obtain the prisoner.

It was reported that the car theft charge against Botts grew out of the alleged fact that he had obtained an automobile valued at $1,590 from Dudley Motor Company by giving a check drawn on the People's State Bank of Many. Botts was said to have taken the car and later the check was returned to Dudley Motor Company as worthless.

Also in jail here last night was Rosa Dell Goodrum, 26, of Thomastown, community between Tallulah and Delta Point. She was taken into custody for local authorities, Sheriff Coverdale said, at Helena, Ark., on a charge of theft of $25 here by giving a bad check.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The nation's darkening labor situation continued to depress stocks today in one of the liveliest short market sessions of the past six years.

Dealings were speedy from the opening on. Steels were among the early tumblers as the strike in this industry was a matter of hours. United States Steel started late on a 2,500-share block, off 1 5-8, and later extended this to 2 5-8. Losses running to 3 or more predominated in the first hour but "bargain hunters" appeared with bids in the final period and extreme declines were halved in many cases near the close. Utilities of the low-quoted variety were fairly resistant although the majority failed to get anywhere. Transfers of around 1,400,000 were the largest for Saturday since May, 1940.

Bonds slipped. Commodities were relatively steady.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced here today on buying which was inducted by a statement by Price Administrator Bowles that any ceilings on the 1946 cotton crop would be much higher than those already proposed. The market closed very steady 25 to 70 cents a bale higher:

SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady 25 cents a bale higher today. Sales 1,781, low middling 19.50, middling 24.50, good middling 24.90, receipts 3,447, stock 202,587.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16ths-inch cotton today at ten designated Southern spot markets was 20 cents a bale higher at 24.57 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 24.51; middling 7/8ths-inch average 23.02.

New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The cotton market was firm today on rather general buying. Trade dealers and commission houses were picking up contracts with demand accompanying prospects for increased export movement of United States cotton in the near future. Trading volume, while brisk at the start dwindled in the late sessions as many dealers turned to the sidelines pending week-end developments.

Futures closed 10 to 80 cents a bale higher.

RECIPE EPITAPH

World's most curious epitaph was a collection of recipes. A chef of the French king Louis Phillipe provided recipes, which were affixed on his tombstone instead of an epitah. Placed in a metal frame, the recipes were changed daily.

ARRANGE CADET AVIATION WORK

Unmarried Men To Be Able To Secure Study; Age Limit 18-23

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19.—(Special)—Commander Fred M. Sloss, director of naval office procurement, 611 Gravier street, New Orleans, La., announces the opening of aviation cadet training for unmarried men, 18 to 23 years of age, who have or will have by June 1, 1946, two years of college training.

In addition to the educational requirements, the applicant must be strongly motivated to fly; be at least 66 inches and not over 74 inches in height; weigh a minimum of 121 pounds or a maximum of 200 pounds, and generally be in good physical condition. Applicants are requested to bring birth certificates, college transcripts and service discharges with them.

Successful applicants will be enlisted and placed on inactive duty. They will be called up for active duty at regular intervals in the order of enlistments after March 1, 1946. Upon being called for active duty they will report direct to a pre-flight school to begin their training in aviation. During training, they will receive $75.000 per month plus all expenses, and upon completion of training within about one year, they will be commissioned as ensigns in naval aviation and draw up to $291.00 per month.

This program does not close the regular naval aviation preparatory program open to high school graduates and college men with less than two years of college. These youths will continue to be enlisted and ordered to a navy V-12 school for college work before they receive flight training.

All calls and correspondence should be addressed to the director of naval officer procurement, 611 Gravier street, New Orleans, La.

TO HOLD REVIVAL

Rev. W. Lee Gann, of Tifton, Ga., will conduct a revival meeting in the local Church of The Nazarene, Thomas and Richmond avenues. The meeting will begin January 20 and will continue through January 27. Services begin at 7:30 each evening, it is announced by Rev. E. T. Harris, pastor.

TEMPERANCE TO BE THEME TODAY

Observing "Temperance Sunday" today in churches of the state in accord with a proclamation by Governor Jimmie Davis so designating the day there will be two addresses delivered here by W. Earl Hotalen, president of the National Temperance Movement with headquarters in Burmingham, Ala. He will speak at the Monroe First Baptist church at 11:00 a.m. today and at the First Methodist church in West Monroe at 7:30 p.m.

Mr. Hotalen began his career in October, 1916, as a minister of the Methodist church until 1918 when he served in the United States army. From 1919 to 1922, he was a minister and for the next eight years thereafter he was a lecturer. He has been president of the National Temperance Movement since 1941.

He is a member of the Masonic lodge, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Junior Order of United American Mechanics and of the American Legion.

The Coast Guard, once known as the Revenue Cutter Service, was founded in 1790, while the present Navy was established in 1799.

HEARINGS HELD ON OIL FIELDS

Delhi Area Discussed; Evidence Taken Under Advisement

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Evidence pertaining to operations in four north Louisiana oil fields was presented here before Joseph E. McHugh, state conservation commissioner.

Matters under consideration included petitions for extending the unitized area in the Cotton Valley field of Webster parish, an integration order for part of the North Shongaloo field of Webster parish, dual completion of a well in the east Haynesville field of Claiborne parish, and an investigation to determine if there is more than one producing horizon in the west Delhi field of Richland parish.

All the applications and evidence were taken under advisement.

The Ohio Oil company and others sought extension and enlargement of the Bodcaw sand participating area of the Cotton Valley field, for the purposes of cycling.

The North Shongaloo hearing was on application of the Placid Oil company. Evidence was heard relative to the issuance of an integration order whereby the separately owned property interests in the north half of the southwest quarter of section 11-23-2E will be pooled, unitized and consolidated for the production of oil and gas from the Pettit lime.

The Placid Oil company also was applicant in the east Haynesville field hearing. The company seeks permission for dual completion of its Birdsong-Mitchiner No. 1 well in section 15-2-7 of Webster parish so that production could be made from both the Kilpatrick zone and a sand in the Sligo formation of the field.

In the west Delhi matter the commissioner received additional information developed by the drilling of certain wells in the field since the hearing held in Monroe last October 10, on application of the Sun Oil company.

Representatives of the various companies appearing at today's sessions included Dixon Carroll, T. T. Daniel and Everett Eaves of Shreveport, representing the Magnolia Petroleum company; George W. Silinger of Tulsa, Okla., and Michael W. Beckman of Shreveport, Skelly Oil company; Robert B. Totten, Delhi; Martin A. Row, F. E. Heath and A. M. Lloyd of Dallas, Sun Oil company; George Berlin, Tulsa, Skelly; Frank N. Spiller, Jr., Dallas, and G. J. Loetterle, Tyler, Texas, representing R. J. Caraway.

ST. MATTHEW'S TO HOLD 5 MASSES

Services at St. Matthew's Catholic church today will be as follows:

Sunday Masses are at 6:30, 8:00, 9:00, 10:00 and 11:00 a.m.

Baptisms are at 4:00 p.m. each Sunday afternoon by appointment.

Week-day Masses are at 6:30, 7:00 and 8:00 a.m., except on Wednesday, the last Mass is at 8:30 a.m. instead of 8:00 a.m.

Sunday school classes for the children who do not attend the Parochial school, immediately after the 8:00 a.m. Mass, each Sunday.

The Guardian Angel Sunday school for the children ages from 3 to 5, each Sunday during the 10:00 a.m. Mass, at the school.

Instruction classes each Wednesday and Friday nights at 7:30 p.m.

The class in advanced religion is held each Monday night at 7:30 p.m.

The national clothing drive for the people of war-torn countries begins this week and will last until January 21. It will be deeply appreciated for those who have some piece of clothing to spare to leave it at St. Matthew's school. Since there will be no laundrying of clothes before they are packed, it will be necessary for them to be cleaned before they are turned in.

Rev. J. C. Marsh is pastor and assistant pastors are Rev. H. W. Hubley and Rev. D. A. Curren.

RETURNS FROM OVERSEAS

Friends of Joe P. Littleton are glad to see him back after 27 months in Burma and India with the air forces. He served 32 months in all. He received his discharge at Camp Shelby, Miss., and he was graded as sergeant.

SEEKING LARGER OIL PRODUCTION

California Company May Test Shallower Sands In Maxey No. 1

Although a small oil producer, announced as a 15-barrel of oil a day output, was brought in the past week, near Calhoun by the California company, it was stated Saturday that the company will in all probability try other formations possibly at a level of 3,000 feet higher than the present one.

The wildcat is known as Maxey No. 1, and besides a small output of oil there was 3,600,000 cubic feet of gas. Tubing pressure was given as 500 pounds.

The well is in section 32-18-1 east and is a mile and one-half southwest of Calhoun. The depth of the well is 9,233 to 9,247 feet following perforation with 84 shots some days ago.

As this is the first oil discovered in any wildcat in Ouachita parish, it occasioned considerable interest from the public.

MISS FEHR WILL VISIT MONROE

Red Cross Field Representative To Make Initial Trip Here

Beatrice Fehr, Red Cross nutrition field representative for Monroe and surrounding territory, will arrive at the Ouachita Parish chapter on January 23 to discuss the nutrition program with chapter officials.

"With the end of war, the work of the Red Cross at home increased rather than decreased," R. M. Troy, chairman of the Ouachita Parish chapter, said. "The nutrition program, directed especially toward towns of 3,000 to 25,000 population, is varied and readily adaptable to community needs."

During the past year nutrition classes have been held for civic groups, women's organizations, public health clinics, Canteen corps, hospital auxiliaries, and P.-T. A.'s. Additional classes are constantly being organized throughout the southeast.

To spread knowledge of nutrition further, films, exhibits and information centers have been developed and the service is cooperating with other chapter services, such as Junior Red Cross and Home Service, in developing their programs.

Miss Fehr was a county home demonstration agent in New York state before becoming associated with Red Cross.

She received her B. S. in home economics from Cornell university and her A. M. in adult education from Columbia. She spent a summer in England observing rural problems. Previous to her home demonstration work, Miss Fehr taught in rural schools. She is a native of Nebraska.

The nutrition specialist has had extensive experience in nutrition committee work, having served as volunteer to teach Red Cross nutrition classes and to serve with chapter committees while she was a home demonstration agent.

New York City has more telephones than in all South America, Central America and the West Indies combined.

SCIENCE LECTURE TO BE DELIVERE

There will be a free lecture o Christian Science delivered at th Ouachita Parish High school audito ium, Friday, January 25, at 8:00 p.m to which the public is cordially in vited.

The speaker will be Arthur C. Whi ney, C. S., of Chicago, Ill., membe of the board of lectureship of t mother church, the First Church Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

His lecture will be entitled: "Chri tian Science: a Religion of Answere Prayer."

TERRY AND THE PIRATES

by MILTON CANIFF

LEE, CAN WE TRUST THOSE CHINESE BOYS WE LANDED AHEAD OF THE UNSURRENDERED JAP TROOPS? WILL THEY ALLOW THEMSELVES TO BE DRAFTED AS COOLIES?

BIG STOOP AND CONNIE HAVE WORKED FOR ME BEFORE, SIR... THEY'LL SEE THAT THE CHINESE SOLDIERS IN CIVILIAN CLOTHES FILTER INTO KEY SPOTS AS BEARERS—TO ACT AS A FIFTH COLUMN...

MISS COBB AND MME. GROSSENACH MAY STILL BE SAFE, BUT THE JAP DIE-HARDS COULD HAVE SLIT THE WOMEN'S THROATS BY NOW!

I WORKED OUT A CODE ON THAT WITH THE CHINESE, SIR! THEY WILL SIGNAL US FROM INSIDE THE JAP CAMP AS TO WHETHER OUR WOMEN ARE ALIVE OR NOT!

IF THEY'RE DEAD WE'LL LAUNCH OUR ATTACK AT ONCE AND GET THIS MESSY BUSINESS FINISHED!

MEANWHILE...

BEHOLD! IT IS THE OBSERVATION IRON BIRD OF THE YANKEES!

I DO NOT RELISH THIS LIFE OF THE HUNTED ANIMAL! ...ALL DAY THE COLUMN RESTS—WHILE WE SCOUTS BREAK TRAIL FOR THE NEXT NIGHT'S MARCH...

THE TURNCOAT WHITE MAN WHO LEADS US PROMISES GREAT REWARDS—AND WE DO EAT WELL...

HA! WE FOUGHT HARD TO TAKE THE RATIONS FROM THE YANKEES...AND I WILL BELIEVE THE WHITE ONE'S PROMISES WHEN THEY MATERIALIZE

THE WHITE MAN SAYS WE WILL BE TORTURED IF WE SURRENDER TO THE YANKEE TROOPS... BUT THAT MIGHT BE BETTER THAN THE WAY MY FEET CURL WITH COLD AT THIS MOMENT!

BEHOLD! CAN THAT BE A BAND OF NATIVE HERDSMEN? JUST WHAT WE NEED TO CARRY OUR BAGGAGE!

SO! ALWAYS THE ABLE-BODIED CHINESE HAVE RUN AT OUR APPROACH—BUT WE HAVE THESE MEN IN A POCKET...

COVER ME WHILE I SEARCH THE SWINE FOR WEAPONS!

EE-YI-HO! LEADER SANDHURST! WE BRING COOLIES!

BIG STOOPER! HE SPEAK TO SANDYHURST FELLER IN ENGLISH! IF IS EVIL ONE WE KNOW BY SAME NAME—THEN HE LIKEWISE KNOW US—AND GOOSIE IS COOKING...

DIET SMITH TALKING. LET ME HAVE THE SUPERINTENDENT AT PLANT 8.

PLANT 3 AT DETROIT CALLING ON THIS PHONE, MR. SMITH.

DIET SMITH, THE BILLIONAIRE INDUSTRIALIST, DOING BUSINESS FROM A CELL! INCREDIBLE.

I TELL YOU, CHIEF BRANDON, I'M INNOCENT OF THIS HORRIBLE MURDER OF MY PARTNER. IT'S CATASTROPHIC.

I BELIEVE YOU, DIET SMITH, AND I THINK TRACY BELIEVES YOU.

BUT UNTIL PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION ESTABLISHES A FEW FACTS WE'LL HAVE TO HOLD YOU.

YOUR STRAINED SPINACH. AND MILK ARE READY, MR. SMITH.

AND IN ANOTHER PART OF THE BUILDING.

HE WAS DEAD BEFORE BEING TAKEN TO DIET SMITH'S HOME. HE HAD BEEN CHOKED TO DEATH

B.O. PLENTY, TECHNICALLY YOU ARE UNDER ARREST ON OLD CHARGES. BUT SINCE YOU'RE THE ONLY ONE WHO SAW THE MURDERER LEAVE THE SMITH MANSION, YOU WILL RETAIN YOUR FREEDOM IN ORDER TO HELP US.

THANK YOU, MR. TRACY. I'LL BE PROUD TO DO MY BIT.

TRACY WANTS YOU TWO TO SHADOW THIS B.O. PLENTY —ALL THE TIME. UNDERSTAND?

LATER IN THE OFFICE

TO ME, THE CORE OF THIS STRANGE MURDER OF DIET SMITH'S PARTNER IS THIS ASTOUNDING WRIST RADIO THAT WAS DROPPED IN THE SNOW AND PICKED UP BY B.O. PLENTY.

THIS IS A MOST REMARKABLE BIT OF PERFECTION —— A TWO-WAY RADIO. IT BOTH SENDS AND RECEIVES.

BY TUNING IT TO THE SAME WAVE LENGTH AS OUR STANDARD RADIO I CAN BROADCAST MY MESSAGE THROUGH THAT SET.

IT CONTAINS TINY TUBES, BATTERY, MICROPHONE, AND A SPEAKER. LOOK! BY PRESSING THE OTHER BUTTON IT RECEIVES.

UNBELIEVABLE!

THE AERIAL IS A FINE WIRE THAT EXTENDS UP THE SLEEVE OF THE OPERATOR. I REMOVED THIS WIRE FROM THE DEAD MAN'S BODY.

DO YOU MEAN THE OWNERSHIP OF THIS INVENTION COULD HAVE CAUSED THE MURDER?

Tarzan

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

THE CAPTAIN'S WOMAN SHADOWED HIM AS HE SPIRITED LURULAI AWAY. CONSUMED WITH JEALOUSY, SHE YET FEARED TO FOLLOW INTO THE CITY'S DREADED CATACOMBS.

IN THE BAZAAR, THE WOMAN HEARS THE LATEST GOSSIP. "THE CAPTIVE GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED," SAID ONE. "THE FIGHTING APE-MAN SEARCHES THE CITY FOR HER."

AT LAST SHE FOUND TARZAN SEARCHING IN THE SLUMS AND QUICKLY REVEALED THE WHEREABOUTS OF THE TREACHEROUS BULOK AND THE GIRL.

WITH JUNGLE-TRAINED SENSES ALERT, TARZAN TOOK UP THE TRAIL. HIS HEART WAS COLD WITH FEAR FOR THE GIRL'S SAFETY.

IN THE INTRICATE MAZE OF PASSAGES, THE JUNGLE LORD'S SENSES LED HIM UNERRINGLY TOWARD THE FLEEING BULOK AND HIS CAPTIVE.

TARZAN CLENCHED HIS TEETH AND FOUGHT HIS WAY UP AN UNDERGROUND STREAM. AT LAST HE SPIED LURULA, STRUGGLING IN THE CAPTAIN'S ARMS.

"PRAISE THE GODS YOU HAVE COME, TARZAN!" THE MAID SOBBED, AS SHE BROKE AWAY AND RAN TOWARD THE APE-MAN. BULOK BELLOWED A CURSE AND DREW HIS SWORD.

TARZAN MET HIS OPPONENT'S MAD CHARGE WITH A POWERFUL BLOW THAT SENT HIM REELING, AND THEN....

...THE FIGHT ENDED AS QUICKLY AS IT HAD BEGUN. IN GRIM SILENCE, TARZAN HEAVED THE LUCKLESS CAPTAIN INTO THE DARK WATERS.

MEANWHILE, IN THE PALACE OUTSIDE KURDU'S BED CHAMBER, A SINISTER SCENE TOOK PLACE. AT ORIZU'S COMMAND, HIS FAITHFUL NUBIAN SLAVE SILENTLY THROTTLED THE GUARD.

STEALTHILY, THE TREACHEROUS ORIZU AND HIS CONSORT CREPT INTO THE ROOM, INTENT UPON MURDERING KURDU THE KHAN.

IN A LAST DESPERATE EFFORT, THE USURPER HOPED TO STEAL THE SCEPTER AND THE SWORD.

YOU'RE TH' SMART ONE, NICK --- I DON'T SEE HOW YOU DO IT!

MOON MULLINS

by Frank Willard

NICE WORK- UGH!

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE! GIVE ME THEM BOXING GLOVES, WILLIAM. ARE YOU GETTING GOOFY?

NO, PET- I AM GETTING MOONSHINE INTO A LITTLE BETTER CONDITION, SO HE CAN BOUNCE A NEIGHBOR ABOUT A BIT.

I HAD SOME TROUBLE WITH THAT FATHEAD ACROSS TH' ALLEY AND—

NOW YOU'RE TRYING TO MAKE SOME MORE, EH?

YAS, FOR YOU I AM!

NOW, GENTLEMEN, PLEASE.

OH YEAH!

LISTEN, YOU STEP INSIDE A MINUTE, GRANDMA

GRAND-MAW?

ZOK!

WHO DO YOU THINK YOU'RE CALLING GRANDMAW?

HAW-HA-HA! GRANDMAW! HAW! HA! HA! HAW!

OOP!

SO YOU THINK THAT'S FUNNY, DO YOU?

YAS- YOU LAUGHED, TOO.

POW!

JUST A MINUTE- WHO IS IT, PLEASE?

IT'S MRS. MULLINS FROM ACROSS THE ALLEY AND YOUR HUSBAND WHO COME OVER AND STARTED A ARGUMENT WITH MY NEPHEW MOON MULLINS.

ADOLPH DOESN'T KNOW HIS OWN STRENGTH- I HOPE HE DIDN'T HURT MR MULLINS.

NO, BUT HE SAID SOMETHING THAT MADE ME VERY MAD, MADAM.

OH, I'M SO SORRY.

YOU AND HIM BOTH!

THE GUMPS

JON AND ANDY HELPLESSLY STARE AT THE CHARRED RUINS OF THE RANCH HOUSE!

"ON THE SECOND NIGHT, LIGHT BON-FIRE- PLACE CONTENTS OF THIS CAN IN IT- ENSUING BLUE FLAME WILL BE SIGNAL THAT YOU AGREE TO LEAVE THIS RANCH FOREVER--"

YES-YES- I KNOW- THEN OUR WIVES WILL BE RETURNED TO US- YOU'VE READ IT OVER AND OVER--

O.K. C'MON- LET'S LIGHT THE FIRE-

THERE MUST BE SOME OTHER WAY! THIS ISN'T THE DARK AGES- WHERE THIEVES CAN BURN OUR HOME AND CARRY OFF OUR WOMEN FOR RANSOM-

THEY CAN'T- BUT THEY DID- WE'VE KNOCKED OURSELVES OUT ROAMING THIS GREAT EMPTINESS FOR THE PAST FEW DAYS-

AND NOT EVEN A HOOF-PRINT TO LEAD US TO TRISHA AND MIN!

IF I COULD GET MY HANDS ON THAT HANDSOME, I'D BREAK HIM--

I KNOW- BUT ACTUALLY WE'RE NOT SURE- HE MIGHT BE A CAPTIVE HIMSELF--

AS SOON AS THIS FIRE GETS GOING, TOSS THAT CAN OF CHEMICALS ON IT, AND GET OUR SUSPENSE OVER WITH--

WAIT! DO YOU HEAR ANYTHING?!

HOOF-BEATS!

YES! AND THERE IT COMES! A RIDERLESS HORSE!

IT'S APACHE! HANDSOME'S HORSE!

THAT PIECE OF PAPER PINNED TO THE POMMEL!

"GIVE HORSE HEAD- WILL LEAD YOU TO YOUR MIN AND TRISHA!

GREAT GUNS! HANDSOME MUST HAVE WRITTEN THAT!

C'MON, APACHE!
